

governor's action in making Attorney Freeling chief prosecutor.

"While the people may not question the authority of Gov. J. B. A. Robertson in making the appointment," he said, "they will question his judgment," adding the governor had been taken advantage of by those "who wanted to maintain their grip on the Hamon millions."

James M. Mathers, county attorney for Carter county, retained by the defense before he assumed office Jan. 2, followed Champion. In the course of his argument he took off his coat and vest.

Calls Killing Execution.

"There was never a Bible in Jake Hamon's room," Mathers said, "because he died as he lived, cursing, swearing, and in debauchery."

The defendant at frequent intervals wept silently.

"I tell you the bullet which caused Jake Hamon's death was the just execution of the sentence of God," Mathers cried.

Mathers at another time said:

"I do not want Mr. Freeling to go into the Governor's chair through the tears of this little girl."

Attacks Self-Defense.

The state's final plea attacked the theory of self-defense. In part, they were based on the theory that Hamon and Clara Smith Hamon were to part.

"Mr. Harding had been elected president, and Mr. Hamon, a poor man when he met him, was going to be a peer in politics, probably a confidant of a president," Freeling said, adding that Hamon had to change his mode of life.

"I'll risk this case on this statement: 'You can load this gun full of cartridges and hit it in any position with a chair and it will not explode,'" he said, as he held the pistol with which Hamon was shot.

"If I could get the consent of my conscience," he declared, "I would ask you to acquit her. God knows it is costing me more to ask you to convict a woman than it will cost you to render a verdict against her."

"Don't crucify a man who is in his grave, and cannot defend himself," the attorney general said at another moment. "Let Jake Hamon take his greater burden, if you will, but don't say Clara Smith Hamon had no responsibility."

DECKER GUILTY OF BOY'S MURDER, SHERIFF SAYS

Warsaw, Ind., March 17.—Conviction of 18-year-old Virgil Decker for the murder of Leroy Lovett, a 19-year-old boy of Elkhart, Ind., in certain Kosciusko county officials declared today.

Practically all the efforts of the officers this afternoon were centered on learning something of the accomplice "that assisted Lovett's murderer. They believe it would have been impossible for the person who murdered Lovett to have carried out all the efforts which were made to cover up the crime. These included the changing of the clothes of the murdered boy, the placing of a body on the railroad tracks near Atwood, Ind., and attempting to make it appear that Lovett was fatally injured when a train hit the body."

No new motives for the crime were uncovered. Those already advanced by the officers include an insurance plot to obtain money on policies taken out by Virgil Decker through false identification of the body, and a controversy between members of the Decker and Lovett families. The theory of the insurance plot is based on attempts by members of the Decker family to identify the body of the dead boy as that of Virgil Decker. Virgil, the officers point out, bears a strong resemblance to the Lovett lad.

KISS A DAY KEEPS A DIVORCE AWAY, PRIEST ASSERTS

Joliet, Ill., March 17.—[Special.]—A kiss a day keeps a divorce away, said the Rev. T. F. Quinn, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church, in an address on "Love, Courtship, and Marriage." Father Quinn advised young men to continue their courtship after marriage.

"Before marriage he wouldn't think of calling on her without bringing a box of candy or sending flowers," the priest said. "He should bring candy and flowers after marriage. He should remember little things like morning and evening kisses. They prevent divorces."

"When a young man begins to call steadily and burn the electric lights until 11 or 12 o'clock he is under obligation to pay the light bills or marry the girl."

BADGER STATE BACHELORS MAY PAY FOR BLISS

Madison, Wis., March 17.—Assemblyman Mark's bill to tax all bachelors between the ages of 30 and 60 years $10 annually for the privilege of remaining single was reported out for passage by the assembly committee on taxation last night.

The bachelor's tax, which started as a joke, has provoked more letters to the editors of Wisconsin papers than any other legislative proposal, and promises to be taken so seriously that it will pass. The bill provides the tax to be collected shall be credited to the school fund.

IOWA RULES FOR EQUAL GUILT IN SEX CRIMES

Des Moines, Ia., March 17.—The bill to establish a single standard to govern sex crimes in Iowa passed the house of the Iowa legislature today, 90 to 6. It was drafted by the state W. C. T. U. and introduced by Representative Mayne of Palo Alto county.

The bill raises the age of consent from 15 to 18 years, and applies penalties equally to men and women convicted.

CRIBMAN FIGHTS SEAS TO RESCUE BOY, 9, IN CANOE

Transfers Child to Own Boat on Lake.

The bravo of a 9-year-old boy in taking a canoe ride on the lake ended in his spectacular rescue yesterday afternoon, while hundreds of guests at the Edgewater Beach hotel and residents of the north shore looked on.

The boy—Harold Loomis of 5555 Broadway—was saved after the heavy sea had carried his canoe more than two miles from shore.

When he was picked up, frightened and exhausted, the waves were kicking the craft farther and farther from land.

Crib Keeper Is Hero.

The rescue was made by Frank Melody, keeper of the Lake View two-mile crib, who lives at 2038 South Halsted street. He went in pursuit of the canoe alone and at the risk of his life.

After he had brought the boy back to the crib, he dared not risk another battle with the waves, so Loomis was forced to spend the night at the crib.

Reached at the crib by telephone, Loomis declared he and another boy, Dick Sutton, 1235 Hollywood avenue, were walking along the lake front when they decided to take out a canoe belonging to James C. Sherman of 5455

Sheridan road. Loomis hopped in, but Sutton refused to go.

Waves Carry Off Paddle.

Soon a huge wave wrenched the paddle from Loomis' hand and the canoe was carried from the shore. Sutton fled for help. Young Loomis began to shout for aid and wave his arms.

Soon those with opera glasses and telescopes saw a boat put out from the crib toward the canoe, which was rocking crazily on the rough sea.

For a period that seemed like hours the spectators the two specks moved toward each other. Finally they were close together. The small boat was lifted bodily from the canoe and deposited in the cribkeeper's boat. The canoe drifted eastward and out of sight.

With his hands bleeding from his efforts, Keeper Melody then battled his way back to the crib. A sigh of relief went up from the spectators.

10 REDS FOUND NOT GUILTY OF PARIS PLOTTING

PARIS, March 17.—[By the Associated Press.]—The ten Communist leaders who were placed on trial Feb. 28 on the charge of plotting to overthrow the government in connection with the strikes of May 1, 1920, were acquitted today.

The trial, which was held before the Seine assize, attracted wide attention because of the prominence of Loris and Lifshitz, both of whom conducted active campaigns for election to the chamber of deputies on the Communist ticket while in jail. The elections were held last Sunday and both were defeated.

The defense contended that the Communist were on trial for an expression of their opinions, which, it declared, constituted a direct violation of their right to liberty of thought. The prosecution did not call any witnesses, but depended on speeches made by the defendants and papers seized when the men were arrested.

CIVIL WAR IN UPPER SILESIA GERMANS' HOPE

Armies of Allies Ready for Trouble.

BY L. C. WALTER.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

OPPELN, Upper Silesia, March 17.—Before yielding their grip on "Prussia's last sword," as the Pan-German papers here call the Upper Silesian coal and metal district, German militarists will attempt to shatter the peace of central Europe by provoking a civil war in the plebiscite zone, in the belief of the interallied authorities, who have issued preparedness orders to the troops of occupation.

To counter any invasion of the plebiscite territory, a French division with a swarm of tanks and reconnaissance and bombing planes has been ordered to take up a position forming a spearhead pointed at Brieg, and Breslau, where the plans for a "drive" on Upper Silesia are believed to have originated.

Position of Allied Forces.

Flanking the French position, which is based on the industrial region in the Beuthen, Kattowitz, Klingschütze, Hindenburg, and Gliwicz districts, the British battalions have been distributed in the northeastern part of the Krouberg territory, on the left flank of the French position, which stretches northwest through the Strehlitz, Cosel, and Oppeln districts, are the Italians, who occupy the districts facing the Czech-Slovakian and German borders, where the Germans predominate.

While the British will watch Namslau, the Italians will afford protection to the plebiscite line against a drive from Neustadt. The latter cities, with Breslau, Nelsae, and Brieg, are the principal hotbeds of the invasion movement, which is fomented by reichswehr officers among the orchest, sicherheits, and other military organizations, as is shown by documents in the possession of the interallied commissions.

Reds to Back Poles.

As a means of inaugurating direct contact with soviet Russia, and incidentally reinforcing the ranks of Polish communists in Upper Silesia, the Communist leaders at the last moment have decided to support a union with Poland on the plebiscite next Sunday.

Word has already gone forth from the Communist headquarters in Bismarckshütte that in view of the approaching conclusion of peace, Poland offers a more promising field for Communist activities than Germany.

The Congress of the Rhineland, which held a meeting at Düsseldorf under permission granted by Gen. Gaudier, with a French officer present, protested against any efforts to spare the Rhineland at the expense of the rest of Germany.

VOTE CONFIDENCE IN BRAND.

PARIS, March 17.—[By the Associated Press.]—The decisions of the London reparations conference, the occupation of Duesseldorf and other German cities, and the application of the allied economic penalties on Germany were approved by the chamber of deputies this afternoon by a vote that was virtually unanimous except for the Socialists and Communists. The vote as officially given out was 491 to 66.

COBLENZ, March 17.—Detailed reports of the interallied Rhine high commission which has been forwarded to the council of the allied nations, indicate that the commission is insisting on full protection for the Rhineland.

WASHINGTON NEWS IN BRIEF

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 17.—Secretary of State Hughes' note to Panama demanding immediate acceptance of the White settlement of the boundary dispute with Costa Rica is regarded as significant of the inauguration of a firm policy by President Harding to require faithful discharge of international obligations by American republics and to settle conflicts in this hemisphere without the intervention of the league of nations.

Senator McCormick said that his budget bill, which was vetoed by President Wilson, will be one of the first measures passed by the new congress.

President Harding laid down the policy of hands off the Irish situation by refusing to permit United States soldiers and sailors to march in the Boston parade in which the Irish flag was carried.

The president directed Attorney General Daugherty to review the Debs case with a view to determining whether the Socialist leader should be released.

Republican members of the house ways and means committee reiterated their desire to have tariff legislation given precedence over tax revision, but reports were that President Harding is leaning toward taking up the tax bill first.

Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago was appointed committee to select the sites and types of hospitals for the care of disabled ex-service men.

gold marks (approximately $125,000,000) yearly. Other members of the commission place the amount that can be collected under the proposed schedule at little more than the cost of collection.

The report recommends the commission be given the option of changing tax schedules monthly if it so desires, thus enabling the members to study the question more carefully and fix taxes which will fall almost entirely on the shoulders of the people in the interior of Germany.

Expects Reply Soon.

The commission expects a reply to the recommendations within the next four or five days, when a customs post from Holland Switzerland immediately will be placed in operation. It is understood that the posts which will be established in the American area will be manned by French officials.

The Congress of the Rhineland, which held a meeting at Düsseldorf under permission granted by Gen. Gaudier, with a French officer present, protested against any efforts to spare the Rhineland at the expense of the rest of Germany.

SOVIETS RETAKE KRONSTADT FORT, ANTI-REDS ADMIT

Revolutionists Flee to Finland.

HELSINKI, March 17.—[By the Associated Press.]—Kronstadt has surrendered to the soviet forces. This announcement is made by the revolutionary committee of Kronstadt, which has arrived in Finland accompanied by 800 soldiers.

Before retreating from Kronstadt the revolutionists blew up the warships Petrovskiy and Sebastopol.

Gen. Kozlovski, leader of the anti-Reds, arrived in Finland.

BOMBARDMENT CAUSES FIRES.

COPENHAGEN, March 17.—The bolshevik batteries on the Karelian headland opened a strong fire against Kronstadt yesterday, says the Helsinki correspondent of the Berlingske Tidende today.

The bombardment from Kronstadt caused four extensive fires along the coast toward Petrograd, the warships at Kronstadt participating in the bombardment, the correspondent adds.

Finnish refugees from Syysterbak report the bolsheviks are making extensive preparations for a new attack on Kronstadt, four artillery divisions, with forty-eight four inch and six inch guns, being concentrated between Syysterbak and Petrograd.

Last night there was a violent artillery duel between the fortresses at Kronstadt, Krasnaya Gorka, and Oranienbaum.

RED DRIVE SUCCESSFUL.

STOCKHOLM, March 17.—[By the Associated Press.]—The bolsheviks launched a general attack against Kronstadt at 5 o'clock this morning and notwithstanding the heavy fire of the revolutionaries succeeded in penetrating Kronstadt, according to refugees in Terio, Finland, says a dispatch from the latter city timed at noon today.

LEEDS CROWDS OUT STILLMAN IN DIVORCE CASE

Husband Put on Defense by Wife's Charges.

apartment, lived quietly and seldom came into the office. At the time Mrs. Leeds left the eighty-sixth street address, she had already purchased an expensive share in the twenty-seven apartment building at 969 Park avenue. The purchase was made through Samuel A. Herzog, owner and agent. Mr. Herzog said the apartment house is owned by tenants, of whom Mrs. Leeds is one, and that there were twenty-six other apartments leased to tenants. "Mrs. Leeds bought a share in the house about eleven months ago," Mr. Herzog said. "She came alone and I never saw Mr. Leeds."

"Mrs. Leeds had been a satisfactory tenant. I have no doubt she gave references when she first rented, but I cannot recall now what those references were."

Mr. Herzog did not care to give the amount of Mrs. Leeds' investment, but said it was considerable, as the Park avenue apartment building is in one of the best residential sections of the city.

Unoccupied for a Year. Although she purchased a share in the apartment house nearly a year ago Mrs. Leeds has never occupied the apartment she selected, according to J. E. Curran, the superintendent. Mrs. Leeds ordered the apartment, on the sixth floor, decorated and said there was no hurry, as she intended to pass the winter in Florida. She has not returned, although the apartment is kept in readiness.

The career of Mrs. Leeds was traced in some detail during the day. It was ascertained that in 1918 she rented for the summer a beautiful place known as Rest Court, at Crane Neck, near Baybrook, Long Island.

Grove Thacker, a chauffeur, now employed by a family residing at 270 Park avenue, an apartment house where Mr. Stillman has his city home, said today of being employed by Mrs. Leeds while she spent the summer at Rest Court in 1918.

Recognized the Car.

Thacker often saw "Mr. Leeds" at the place spending week ends, and had a reason to think the name fictitious. Some time ago, when in his present employment, he saw the man he had previously known as "Mr. Leeds" emerge from 270 Park avenue. He recognized the expensive car which "Mr. Leeds" drove from the city to Rest Court and back. When he saw "Mr. Leeds" about to enter the car he saluted and called the man by the only name he had known. "It was Mr. Stillman all right," Thacker said, and he seemed terribly put out when I called him Mr. Leeds. He gave me the high sign and indicated that he recognized me. I have seen him many times since and he always gives me the same nod of recognition, and occasionally repeats that high sign for silence."

Always Paid Cash.

The chauffeur told of driving Mrs. Leeds back to the apartment at 64 East Eighty-sixth street late in the summer of 1918 and then being dismissed. He was paid off by "Mr. Leeds," he said, in cash. "Mr. Leeds" always paid for everything in cash, Thacker observed.

Though the place was a large one, Mrs. Leeds had only a maid and a cook at Rest Court, Thacker said. The maid was Sophie Bartkoff, whose story this Tribune has printed. Very little mail came to Rest Court, the chauffeur said, and that was generally brought from town by "Mr. Leeds."

The condition of Mrs. Leeds made her imperative at the time, and Thacker said it was the quietest and sanest job he had ever had.

Herman Carlson, who became Mrs. Leeds' chauffeur in March, 1919, also was positive he said that Mr. and Mrs. Leeds had an apartment at the Hotel Langdon, 715 Fifth avenue, as well as at 64 East Eighty-sixth street. He drove them from one place to the other, he said. He did not recall taking them to theaters, and said there was only one restaurant, near the Langdon, that he was quite clear about taking them to together. Carlson's memory of that restaurant is clear, as it was there he first began to suspect that "Mr. Leeds" was James A. Stillman.

Coming out of the restaurant one evening, the chauffeur said, "Mr. Leeds," was stopped as he was about to enter the car by the head waiter who announced that there was a telephone call for "Mr. Stillman."

"Mr. Leeds immediately rushed back into the restaurant," Carlson said, "and was absent quite a few minutes. Mrs. Leeds waited in the car for him. When he returned he remarked to me for no reason that I could think of then, that the call had not been for him."

The Doorman Laughed.

"A few days later I took Mr. and Mrs. Leeds to Black, Starr & Frost, the jewellers. There the doorman said to me, 'I see you've got a new boss. He's a fine man, that Mr. Stillman.' I replied that my boss' name was Leeds and the doorman laughed at me.

"Don't tell me that," he said. "I know Mr. Stillman well enough when I see him. You're a clever boy, all right, but you can't fool me."

"Taking that up with the telephone call, I guessed I was working for Mr. Stillman, all right. But I never bothered much about it. Mrs. Leeds was a hard lady to work for, very cross at times, and I quit the job one day when we drove down to Long Beach. Mrs. Glidden, about, and her sister, Mary. I used to give her father—'old man Lawlor' I always called him—a ride once in a while."

MRS. STILLMAN'S CHARGES

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., March 17.—(Special.)—It became known today that the extraordinary charges brought by James A. Stillman, president of the National City bank, in his divorce and illegitimacy action have been met by equally sensational charges against himself.

Mrs. Stillman, in papers presented to Justice Morschauser in support of her motion for an amended answer and alimony, has made charges that ex-

Exclusive new apartment building at 969 Park avenue, New York, in which Mrs. Leeds purchased a tenth interest and had her own suite of ten rooms decorated and furnished at an expense of $20,000.

There are twenty-seven other apartments in this building, which is in one of the most fashionable districts of Manhattan. Mrs. Leeds and nine other of the residents are the owners.

actly parallel the allegations against herself on the two big issues:

1. In reply to Mr. Stillman's accusation that she was guilty of misconduct with Fred Beauvais, the Indian guide, Mrs. Stillman declares that it was her husband who was unfaithful, and names Mrs. Florence H. Leeds as the woman.

2. In reply to the charge that her youngest son, Guy, is illegitimate (Mr. Stillman says he is not the father of Guy), Mrs. Stillman charges that the banker is the father of an illegitimate child. This child, she alleges, is the son of Mrs. Leeds and was born about the same time as Guy. His name is Jay Leeds.

Moreover, Mrs. Stillman goes further than her husband and charges infidelity over a long period, beginning in September, 1917, and continuing until the present. She accuses the banker of living with Mrs. Leeds as man and wife in an apartment house at 64 East Eighty-sixth street, where the boy, Jay, was born. According to Mrs. Stillman, her husband posed as Franklin Harold Leeds.

The accusations brought by Mrs. Stillman mention Stonybrook, Long Island, as well as the apartment house on Eighty-sixth street, as a place where the alleged acts complained of took place.

One of the most remarkable situations of the parallel charges on the part of man and wife is the coincidence that each of the two children whose legitimacy is questioned was born about the same time. Jay Leeds was born in September, 1918, in New York City. Guy Stillman was born in November of the same year.

Whereas Mrs. Stillman alleges that Mr. Stillman is the father of the boy, Jay, she also declares in her own defense that Mr. Stillman also is the father of the boy, Guy, the youngest of her four children.

Names Still Another Woman.

In addition to Mrs. Leeds, attorneys for Mrs. Stillman say they have the name of another woman with whom they allege Mr. Stillman was on familiar terms, but the name of Mrs. Leeds is the only one used in the papers so far. The second woman is said to be a beauty, as Mrs. Leeds is. All the women in the case are noted for their beauty, as Mrs. Stillman was the famous society beauty Pin Potter before her marriage to the banker in 1901. She is 41 years old and the other women are many years younger. Mrs. Leeds is said to be 26.

"GOOD FELLOWS BOTH," VIEWS OF "FIFI" AND GUIDE

Canadian Clubmen Grieve Over Divorce Gossip.

BY JAMES WHITTAKER.

Three Rivers, Que., March 17.—(Special.)—"For she's a jolly good fellow."

That was what the members—all men—of the St. Maurice club chanted with glasses raised to Mrs. "Fifi" Potter Stillman when she left their roof in the summer of 1916.

She had come for a visit in the spring, had become enamored with the hunting country by midsummer, and was now leaving with young Fred Beauvais as her guide and pack carrier to search for a woodland home for herself in the wilds above La Tuque, 100 miles north of here.

"They were gone three weeks together," said the St. Maurice club member who spoke to the reporter today. "And that is where all this divorce trouble started."

The speaker, who knows both Mrs. Stillman and Fred Beauvais well, and esteems both as good sports, related that the sentiment of the St. Maurice clubmen, as they saw the domestic troubles of the Stillmans propel them yearly closer to the present open break, was one of regret that events were spoiling two precious characters—a good sportsman and a first rate guide.

A First Rate Guide Rated.

"Not a man in the woods is as good a guide as Fred," he said. "He's the prince of the forest. You ought to see him throw a fly. Culture was no good for him. Mrs. Stillman brought him down to New York and ruined a first rate guide. He can't write insurance as well as he used to paddle a canoe. That would be impossible."

It appears that Mrs. Stillman on the occasion of her three weeks' excursion with Beauvais in 1916 found no lodge or hut to her liking about La Tuque. She returned to the club before the end of summer.

However, she had found a miserable ruin of a cabin on the banks of Lac Du Chas, for which she conceived a sudden liking.

She promptly engaged young Beauvais to superintend the remodeling of this hut into a rude three room dwelling. Beauvais engaged four La Tuque men for the job. They are George Adams, an 80 year old relic of older and fiercer Canadian days, when he was known as "the Bully of the North," old Joe Page and his two sons, Armand and Joe.

Building a Scandal.

All four were later among those witnesses brought down to New York in January. They helped build the story of Mrs. Stillman's alleged misconduct with their foreman on which the Stillman divorce action is based. Curious bits revealing the character and episodes of the lives of these men come to light.

George Adams, for instance, who has toughly outlasted two wives, asked one of the New York members of the St. Maurice club last year to "buy me a fairly good new wife in America." He offered the American $4 with which to do the shopping.

Once Adams was every bit as good a guide as was later Fred Beauvais, but his reputation is based on his artistic handling of an ax.

Still a cut-up, old Joe Page is the inseparable companion of Louis Beauvais, Fred's father. Together the two old men have fallen into a habit lately of speaking of young Fred in the past tense—"what a good shot Fred was," or "what a good, strong boy."

Louis Beauvais came to a club member of the St. Maurice a week ago and asked, "Is my boy a bum?"

Called the "Informant."

Another of the local Stillman witnesses is La Fontaine, station agent of the Canadian Pacific railway at Grandes Piles. The country folks believe that he was the first informing tongue to speak in Stillman's ear of the local whisperings about his wife.

Some charge him bitterly with having precipitated, by an unsought report to Stillman, at the present bitterness.

The reporter knows only that La Fontaine was an important witness in January in a New York law office and that he helped Lawyer Lajoie of here to assemble his witnesses.

Strangely enough, none of the Beauvais family was numbered among those who testified clandestinely in January. That is accounted for by the St. Maurice folks by the fact that a terrific quarrel between the elder Beauvais on the one side and their son, Fred, and Mrs. Stillman broke out in the summer of 1917.

Mrs. Stillman, when she erected her lodge on the banks of Lake Pawson, just east of Grand Anse, sixty miles up stream from here, engaged the whole Beauvais family as her servant

Father was handy man, mother was cook, and Arthur and Agnes and Fred—particularly Fred—were called upon to perform little personal services for the lady of the lodge.

Whatever the causes for the quarrel in 1917, the results were immediate. Father and brother Beauvais and the two young Beauvais—all the Beauvais except Fred Beauvais—left together suddenly one day and have not returned since.

FRANCE LEADS IN RECOGNITION OF OBREGON?

Washington, D. C., March 17.—(Special.)—Diplomatic cable dispatches received here today state that the French government has recognized the Mexican government. This action on France's part came as a surprise, as it had heretofore been assumed that the French government was following the lead of the United States in Mexican affairs and would not take any action that might embarrass or make more difficult the disposition by the United States of the Mexican problem. It is asserted in well informed quarters that the action of France will not affect the state department's Mexican policy, which has been for a considerable period not to recognize the Mexican government until dependable assurances are given that American rights in Mexico would be properly respected, such assurances to be given in treaty form.

Americans Opposed to Obregon.

Galveston, Tex., March 17.—Declaring that the Obregon government had failed to protect life and property of Americans, members of the Association of Producers of Petroleum of Mexico went on record last night against American recognition of the southern republic until "absolute assurances of protection for American interests are forthcoming." Forty oil men, representing nine companies with holdings in Mexico, attended yesterday's conference.

PACKING TOILERS VOTE FOR STRIKE BY BIG MAJORITY

Leader Charges Plot to Cause Walkouts.

In the tabulation last night of the strike vote taken by stockyards employees in Chicago, the first 14,819 votes counted showed 13,927 for and 892 against a walkout should the packers persist in their position on hours and wages. Unofficial returns from other packing centers indicate results even more overwhelmingly in favor of a strike.

The vote of Armour and Swift employees at St. Paul was 2,472 for and 72 against. Only two of the first 100 ballots counted at Kansas City were against a walkout. The vote at Denver was 551 for and 18 against. In Omaha 5,841 votes were cast, 5,109 for and 732 against a strike.

Reports of almost unanimous strike votes were received from Cedar Rapids, Fort Worth, and Cleveland. The official results in the cities in which the vote was started on Wednesday will not be known until today, when they will be given out at the international headquarters here. Union leaders in other towns said they had received instructions to seal the balloting boxes and forward them here. In some places the vote will not be taken until tomorrow or Sunday. The Chicago polls were kept open until 9 o'clock last night.

Developments of Day.

While the vote was being polled the two outstanding developments in the Chicago situation were: Dennis Lane, international secretary-treasurer of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, sent a telegram to Secretary of Labor James J. Davis charging the packers with attempting to stampede the workers into a runaway strike prior to the opening of the wage parley in Washington on Monday.

The smaller Chicago packers—those not listed among the "big five"—issued a statement through the American Institute of Packers announcing most of them have been forced to shut down their plants to avert taking further losses due to material costs and wage rates under the wartime agreement.

Lane Charges Packers' Plot.

Mr. Lane's message to Secretary Davis follows:

"I desire to acquaint you with the fact that the packers, through their superintendents and foremen, are exerting every possible effort to agitate the workers to the point where they will indulge in runaway strikes before the conference opens next Monday. Today orders were issued in the Armour plant to the employees who refused to vote for the selection of representatives in the so-called cooperative company organization that unless they voted tomorrow they would be discharged."

"I appeal to you to immediately request the representatives of the packers now in Washington, to convey to their clients a request that they stop all efforts to aggravate the situation pending our conference."

Expected Appeal to Harding.

Lane declared he believed employees' associations will appeal to President Harding before the end of the week to compel the packers to return to the Alchulac agreement "so as not to jeopardize the interests of the employees throughout the country."

Among smaller packers who take the same stand as the "Big Five" are the William Davies company, Louis Pfister & Sons, the Independent Packing company, Brennan Packing company, Boyd-Latham & Co., and Miller and Hart.

"Packers can stand very little more hammering," said James S. Agor of the William Davies company. "If the larger packers should be persuaded to make any unfavorable revision of the wage reduction they have just effected, it would artificially peg up the wage rate of all Chicago packing houses to a point at which many establishments probably would be compelled to remain closed indefinitely."

BRITISH LEADERS URGE EXPANDING NAVAL PROGRAM

See Potential Foes on Both Oceans.

BY JOHN STEELE.

(Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.)

LONDON, March 17.—A request by the British admiralty for £2,500,000 with which to build four new capital ships to replace obsolescent vessels brought lively criticism and comparison between the British and American naval programs in the house of commons tonight. Col. Archer-Shee contended that the admiralty's provision would be insufficient.

By the time the new ships were completed, he said, America would have four times the number of heavy ships that Great Britain had.

"No one outside a lunatic asylum would dream that Great Britain ever would attack America," he declared, "but propaganda in America against England is a source of great danger."

Results of Propaganda.

He said it was difficult today for Englishmen to walk in certain parts of New York without being insulted, and said the Union Jack could not be flown without attracting a hostile mob.

"It is essential that Great Britain by 1925 must equal America in naval power," he concluded.

Sir Edward Carson warned the government that it could not leave Japan out of consideration.

By 1925, he pointed out, Japan would have eleven great post-Jutland ships, so, between America and Japan there would be twenty-nine against five British ships of this grade. He urged the government to watch the situation so in 1922 a more extensive program could be adopted if necessary.

"The country will not tolerate economy, which places Great Britain in danger," he stated.

"I urge that the house be not led into doing something which might be extremely regretted in years to come by allowing the economy cry to effect sound judgement."

Lady Astor Takes Part.

Viscount Curzon expressed the thought that the admiralty was taking too much risk with view to American and Japanese developments and pointed out that weakness and unpreparedness invited attack.

"Lady Astor, contributing to the discussion, remarked that it was inconceivable that Great Britain and the United States, both of which fundamentally were Anglo-Saxon, ever should wage war on one another."

Mercury Fickle

Spring came and went yesterday.

It came gradually and went quickly. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon the parks were filled with young boys and older people. At that hour in Garfield park the thermometer there registered 61 degrees, and the gentle breeze filled the sails of the small boats which raced on the lagoon. But eight hours later on Michigan boulevard the girls, the last to worry about the cold weather, were pulling their fur up close around their necks and hurrying along the street as the wind bit through the tattered silk stockings. The temperature had dropped to 34 degrees, according to hotel thermometers, and was still going down.

While positive assurance has not been received from the faculty that allowed, it is generally felt that no opposition will be encountered because the self-government project will be of the general support given the plan by the students.

The Hood is a battle cruiser of 41,200 tons normal displacement. She carries eight 15-inch guns, twelve 5.5-inch guns, four 4-inch anti-aircraft guns, four 3-pounders, and five machine guns and has two submerged torpedo tubes and four above water.

ANN ARBOR MAY ADOPT STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 17.—Almost unanimous approval was accorded here Wednesday to the student self-government project, which was recently adopted by the upper class body and recommended to the university, after a special referendum election showed 2,102 students in favor of the plan with but 72 opposed.

The new system calls for a student advisory committee to voice the sentiment of the student body to the dean of students, to discuss matters pertaining to general policies of student conduct, to submit recommendations on such matters to the dean of students, and to assist actively the proper university authorities in the enforcement of all rules pertaining to student conduct.

While positive assurance has not been received from the faculty that allowed, it is generally felt that no opposition will be encountered because the self-government project will be of the general support given the plan by the students.

"Chesty" if Good Shot,

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—Anthony Cogan, at one time caddy for both President Harding and former President Wilson, speaking of Harding's game, said today:

"They say he is an average player. He's on the far side of the average. He takes about 110 to get around. I could give him 20 and then beat him."

"How about President Wilson's game?"

"Well, Harding could give him two strokes a hole and beat him, and Senator Hitchcock can beat the life out of Harding."

"Harding always wants everyone to see him when he gets a good drive," he continued. "He sticks out his chest, but you've never seen a golfer that didn't do that. He's just like the rest of them. And he wants his alibi when he dubs them."

Gets 200 Yards—Maybe.

"What about his driving game with the wood clubs?" was asked.

"Harding gets about 200 yards with his wood clubs. That's the best part of his game. He likes to see them ride through the air. But he spoils a good many shots. He gets too much of his body into it and doesn't let his arms take the club through. At that, he's a good deal better than Wilson, for Wilson could only get about 75 yards."

"What was the matter with President Wilson's driving game?"

"You see, Harding is a big man. He weighs around 200 pounds. Let him go through a league of nations fight and he won't get more than seventy-five yards. Then Harding plays golf and Wilson just went around for the exercise. Wilson could beat President Wilson."

"How many did it take Wilson to get around?"

"About 200. I don't think any one ever kept score on him."

Poor with Irons; Good Putter.

From there the interview went to the iron clubs.

"Wilson's got it on him when it comes to using the iron club. Wilson hits them straight down the course with the irons, but Harding doesn't know whether he should hit them hard or easy. Sometimes he's far over the green and some times short of it. He won't come back all the way with the irons. He uses a half swing. And he dubs his shots with his irons."

"Harding is good with the putter. He judges the distance and he's pretty accurate. He has it on Wilson there, for Wilson never seemed to care whether he was driving for the hole or not. It always seemed that Wilson never cared whether he was improving as a golfer player and Harding always is trying."

Doesn't Cuss, but "Thinks of It."

"Harding is a pretty good fellow to go around with. He never cusses, but you can see he's thinking about cussing. You can see that now and then he wants to let fly with some swear words, but I never heard him do it. It was easy to caddy for Wilson, too, because he never seemed to blame the caddy for everything. He was always trying to have a good time out of it, and the caddy did, too."

"When Harding goes out, he goes out to play golf. When they had the league of nations on, Harding always brought along some one to argue about the league with Hitchcock, and then he played golf."

CURTAIN MAY 15 FOR WHOLESALE LIQUOR DEALER

Doomed, While the Retail Druggist Wins Favor.

Washington, D. C., March 17.—The wholesale liquor establishment, brother of the bar, will be put to death May 15, under sentence pronounced today by Prohibition Commissioner Kramer.

Although an opinion rendered by Attorney General Palmer last December, said the wholesaler had no legal right to continue in business, internal revenue and prohibition officials decided to grant him time in which to unload stocks without too heavy monetary loss. But Mr. Kramer's announcement today made it clear there would be no extension of time after May 15.

Mr. Kramer, however, today opened the way for the retail druggist to obtain supplies for prescriptions, and removed the ban on withdrawals from bonded warehouses. For several months such warehouses' doors have been closed.

Druggist Can Deal Direct.

The order today makes it possible for the retail druggist to transact business direct with the bonded warehouses. Wholesale druggists will be taken care of later, Mr. Kramer indicated, by granting them similar privileges.

Dealings between retail druggists and other purchasers and the bonded warehouses later will be limited by regulations which officials declared would be drastic enough to satisfy the most ardent dry advocate. They must be based, however, it was added, on Mr. Palmer's opinion. It is planned to put them in effect about the time the wholesale houses go out of existence.

So far as the wholesaler is concerned, Mr. Kramer said, his one task now is to get rid of the stocks on hand. He will not be allowed to increase his present holdings, but there are no strings tied to him in selling to druggists, either wholesale or retail, before May 15.

"Never Again Beer Over the Bar."

Philadelphia, Pa., March 17.—The ruling that physicians may prescribe beer "may mean beer at the soda fountain, but never again beer over the saloon bar or in the hotel dining room," said former Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer here today.

"The law has fixed one channel through which beer may be obtained for medical purposes," said Mr. Palmer. There was never any legal knot to be untied.

"The prohibition law," he added, "will never be fully effective until the public becomes conscious of wrong doing in violating it."

Seize Private Car Stock.

Miami, Fla., March 17.—Harry S. Black of New York, connected with the George A. Fuller company, was arrested today after prohibition officials found sixty cases of intoxicating liquors aboard his private car. They will ask confiscation of the car, valued at $100,000.

SNAKES—ON ST. PATRICK'S DAY!

Snake whisky, with a real garter snake in each bottle, was found by dry agents yesterday in a raid on the west side. Robert J. Maley, a prohibition agent, is shown with a bottle of the ultra-potent hooch. One drink made a rabbit fight a bulldog, says Charles Gindvolas, arrested as owner of the still.

Reptiles in Hooch

"S' finest remedy in the world for rheumatism. One drink! You're cured. Why, it will knock a cold in twenty minutes and the way it—"

The speaker was Charles Gindvolas, sole discoverer of the most potent concoction yet reported for the transformation of the perambulating citizenry into climbers of telephone poles.

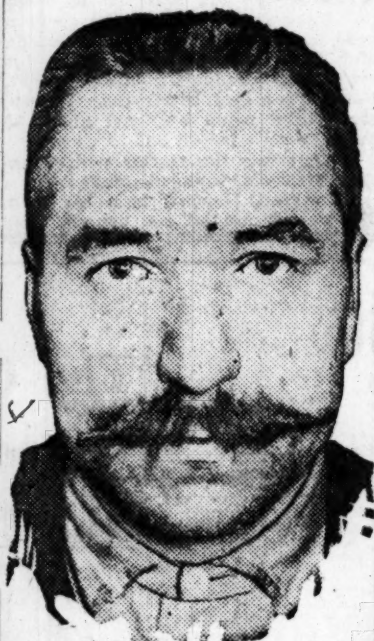

"Y'see, that snake that's in the bottom of the bottle gives the whisky about ten times as much kick as the ordinary 'white mule.' Yes, sir, I'll guarantee it. Ten times as much kick, and then some."

Joseph Callahan, chief of the federal prohibition agents, says Mr. Gindvolas is the original and sole producer and inventor extraordinary of "snake whisky," made from the genuine article, no substitutes allowed. That's why the medicine maker spent last night at the South Clark police station and why unusual quiet pervaded his residence at 1715 South Canal street.

Dry agents raided Gindvolas' home yesterday and confiscated a still and a bottle of whisky in which was coiled a three foot garter snake. They assert Gindvolas provided his neighbors with the "stuff that makes the world go round."

"It was that genuine snake whisky that did it," Gindvolas admitted. "That booze makes an old man of 60 feel like a kid in short pants. It puts pep into the peeps. One time I gave it to a pet rabbit and the rabbit started a fight with a bulldog. Yes, sir, that's some whisky. And, I'm the fellow who made it."

"I'm looking for 'hooch' with reptiles in it now," Callahan said.

RAILWAY BOARD BEGINS PROBE OF ROADS' FINANCES

With the question whether the public is to be made a party to the hearing still pending, the United States railway board today will begin to examine evidence as to the true financial condition of the railroads, which are asking that the war time agreements be abrogated "as an emergency measure to prevent bankruptcy."

Board Inspects Records.

The board last night began going over records, memoranda, and a mass of correspondence submitted by the railroads. The employees' representatives claim this material will reveal a conspiracy to break the national agreements.

After the session G. E. W. Hanger, the member authorized to issue statements for the board, said he was not at liberty to discuss the business transacted. He stated, however, that the resolution of the National Industrial Traffic league, a shippers' organization which petitioned to be made a part of the hearing as representing the public, had not been passed upon.

Jewell to Talk for Unions.

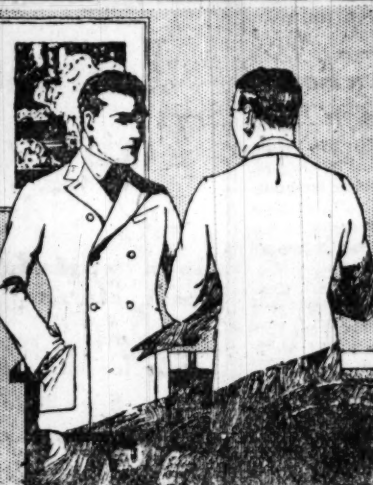

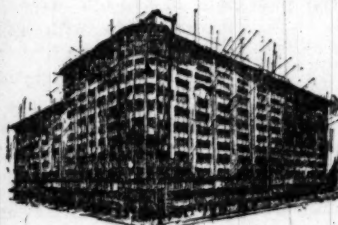

R. M. Jewell, head of the railway employees' department of the American Federation of Labor, will testify on behalf of the unions in an effort to show that the records supplied by the railroads do not warrant abrogation of the agreements.

SAYS CARNEGIE INSTITUTE AIMS TO AID ENGLAND

Prof. McLaughlin Agent, Irish Speaker Claims.

Edward F. McSweeney, former editor of the Boston Traveler, in an address before the Irish Fellowship club last night said the Carnegie institute, perpetuating the alleged desire of the late steel magnate for "Anglo-Saxon unity," is a fountain head of British propaganda in America. He named Prof. Andrew Cunningham McLaughlin, head of the history department of the University of Chicago, as the institute's chief agent in this city.

Mr. McLaughlin could not be reached last night. Mrs. McLaughlin said her husband organized the bureau of historical research for the Carnegie institute in 1902, but has not been associated with it for fourteen years.

Mr. McSweeney was the chief speaker following an Irish Fellowship club banquet attended by about 1,000 men and women in the Hotel La Salle. The banquet was one of several functions marking St. Patrick's day.

Hits England's Commercial Aims.
"England's policy," Mr. McSweeney said, "is to vanquish its commercial rivals. With Germany conquered and France well out of the running, America is next in line."

British propaganda, Mr. McSweeney charged, extends as far as an effort to substitute English versions of American history for the "fact."

"The American Irish cannot understand why it is that the sentiment for freedom put forth as the reason why the United States entered the war—which freedom has been extended to races practically unknown five years ago—is now denied to Ireland," Mr. McSweeney said.

"The American Irish in the United States have no divided allegiance. They are for America first, and they are better Americans because they resist the myth of an alleged Anglo-Saxon dominance."

James V. O'Donnell presided and Judge Brennan was one of the speakers. Walter Scanlan, an actor, and Margaret Lang, Chicago soprano, featured an entertainment program.

"Free Ireland" Is Day's Cry.
The spirit of Patrick, patron saint of the Irish, was invoked in Chicago yesterday, as elsewhere throughout America. The day lacked many of its traditional features, and was rather more quietly observed than in other years. It seemed dedicated to Ireland's struggle for independence.

The green, white, and orange were as much in evidence as ever before, but the festive spirit had given way to one of solemnity.

In public address and prayer—in banquet hall and cathedral—relief was asked for Ireland's hungry, destitute thousands.

$10,240,000 Drive Launched.
The beginning of the drive for Chicago's quota of the $10,240,000 fund the American Committee for Relief in Ireland is seeking in a nationwide campaign was a feature of the day. Definite assurance that the money is to be used for relieving the distress of the needy in Ireland without regard to political or religious tendencies of the beneficiaries, has gained universal endorsement for the undertaking.

D. F. Kelly, chairman of the Chicago committee, received an appeal for the city's support of the campaign, signed by Cardinal Gibbons, Morgan J. O'Brien, Senator Thomas P. Walsh, David I. Walsh, James D. Phelan, Joseph Daniels, Bernard M. Baruch, David Starr Jordan, Henry Morgenthau, and many others of national prominence.

"As America succored Belgium, so

Left to right—John MacRea, wounded in Soissons, July, 1918; Sidney Fresch, J. Waselewski, marines; Miss Estelle Leider, social worker; Y. S. Anderson, Herbert, Whitke, and Sgt. Leland Post. They couldn't find any shamrocks, but that was no reason why the reserve officers' training corps of Tilden High school should forget the wounded heroes at Drexel hospital St. Patrick's day. They didn't. The beautiful pot plants were their gifts.

Remember Wounded

Should you pass the Drexel hospital for wounded soldiers, Forty-seventh street and Drexel boulevard this morning, you will see all the windows, especially those on the sunny side, lined with blooming plants. Each soldier was given a plant yesterday in honor of St. Patrick's day, by the thirty-nine members of the reserve officers' training corps of the Tilden High school. The potential soldiers marched to see those who have already passed through the fire in fine formation. Instead of a gun each carried two plants.

Will she come to the aid of stricken Ireland, the appeal read. "Our cause is a cause of humanity; our sole purpose to alleviate human suffering."

While the gala spirit was subdued, there were banquets, a notable ball, and other entertainments here marking observation of St. Patrick's day.

Benefit for Celtic Cross.
At White City 5,000 members and guests of the Celtic-American association danced. Proceeds of this benefit are to go to the Celtic Cross, a medical relief organization in Ireland.

The Rev. J. K. Fielding addressed thousands in Orchestra hall last night. "The Murder of a Nation," illustrated by stereoscopic views, was his subject. He said British censorship does not permit facts of conditions as they exist in Ireland to go out to the world. He defended Irish soldiers against the charge that they have "lain in ambush" for the English military forces.

Other Celebrations.
Musical entertainment, followed by dancing, drew hundreds to North Side Turner hall. There were speeches by Prof. G. F. Connelly of the University of Chicago, Finley Bell, and John M. Flynn. This affair was under the auspices of Napper Tandy council of the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic.

Another St. Patrick's entertainment was held at the Press club. The Rev. Thomas V. Shannon spoke following a noon luncheon at the Covenant club. "What Ireland Wants" was his subject.

"Ireland Wants Liberty."
"Ireland wants liberty," Father Shannon said, "and no people has a more sacred claim to it. For more than 700 years Ireland has kept up its struggle for freedom. But most of its fighting has been for other causes. We do not recall frequently enough the fact that one-third of the men under Washington were of Irish extraction. Irishmen's blood has drenched every country of Europe."

Speeches and music featured an entertainment at De Paul university auditorium last night. Folk songs were sung by Miss Margaret Ridd.

IRISH PROBLEMS NO CONCERN OF U.S.—HARDING

His Policy Will Be "Hands Off."

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—President Harding in unmistakable terms today laid down a policy of "hands off the Irish situation" in so far as the American government is officially concerned.

His attitude was announced in a telegram signed by his secretary, George B. Christian Jr., to John F. Harrigan, state president of the Massachusetts council of the American Association for Recognition of the Irish Republic. It conforms exactly to the position Mr. Harrigan took when the Irish issue was brought before him during the campaign.

Mr. Harrigan wired the president in protest against the refusal of the military and naval authorities to permit troops to participate in the joint celebration of St. Patrick's day and Evacuation day in Boston. President Harding directed Secretary Christian to send Mr. Harrigan the following reply:

"Your telegram has been called to the attention of the president and he directs me to say in reply that army and navy commanders have authority to direct the forces under their command. The government raises no issues about the fitness of your celebration of Evacuation day, and the spirit of St. Patrick's day is felt throughout our country; but the naval and military forces of the nation can have no part in any demonstration which may be construed as influencing the foreign relations of the republic."

This will stand as a precedent for all future occasions on which the Irish question arises, it was said.

Watch for Breach of Orders.
Boston, Mass., March 17.—The celebration of the 145th anniversary of the evacuation of Boston by the British had its usual fringe of green today, due to observance at the same time of St. Patrick's day, but it lacked the customary presence of troops of the regular army and navy.

Because Irish societies were given a place in the parade, army and navy commanders refused to allow regular forces to take part. Service uniforms were not lacking, however, men of the American Legion and of the Society of Foreign War Marching in ranks with their several posts. Department of justice agents were posted along the line of march to report violations of the law regarding the wearing of regulation uniforms.

Gotham Has Huge Parade.
New York, March 17.—Turning their annual St. Patrick's day celebration into a mammoth demonstration of fealty for the "Republic of Ireland," and bitterness toward England, thousands of New York's Irish marched up Fifth avenue today in a parade that lasted more than three hours.

Rainbow division veterans of the 69th National Guard regiment, known as "The Fighting Irish," marching in their service uniforms and carrying rifles, held the place of honor in the long pageant. Fluttering above them were the Stars and Stripes, while for miles to the rear the scores of Irish organizations and bands came tramping along with the green, white, and gold flag of the "Irish republic." This color was waved everywhere, replacing almost entirely the green banner with golden harp, so numerous in past processions.

The parades were reviewed by Mayor Hylan, former Gov. Smith and a number of Catholic clergy, including the Rev. Francis P. Duffy, chaplain of the "Fighting Sixty-ninth."

ASKS IF ITALY WILL STICK BY ALLIED NATIONS

MILAN, March 17.—The newspaper Giornale d'Italia, the organ of former Foreign Minister Sonnino, in discussing the international situation says that Italy must decide whether she shall continue her alliance with the allies or else form a new policy.

"We must decide," the paper says, "whether we are with the allies and intend to respect their political moves, taking part with all our heart in their actions, or whether we are tired of our glorious alliance and intend to carry out a policy in our own behalf and incidentally in behalf of the conquered."

WOMEN OF ERIN APPEAL FOR AID TO MRS. HARDING

DUBLIN, March 17.—[By the Associated Press.]—Five prominent Irish women in a message transmitted by the American relief committee's delegation here called on Mrs. Harding, wife of the president of the United States, to appeal to American women for emergency relief for Irish women and children.

The message asserts that large numbers of women have been made homeless by the destruction of houses, farms and shops, and that their babies are dying in hundreds.

The signatories to the appeal include Alice Sophia Green, the historian, and Lady Augusta Gregory, playwright. As a reprisal for the execution Monday of Thomas Whelan in Mountjoy prison Constable O'Kane was shot dead.

In Clifden, County Galway, last night, and another constable was wounded. Crown forces made searches to discover the authors of the shootings and shot to death John McDonald, who is alleged to have attempted to evade arrest.

Three bombs were thrown at a military lorry last night in Camden street. The soldiers returned the fire and some civilians were wounded.

The railway station at Rich Hill, County Armagh, an Orange center, and twelve loaded cars were destroyed by fire this morning. They had first been soaked with petrol. A train proceeding from Portadown for Armagh also was looted.

Riots Near Belfast.
BELFAST, Ireland, March 17.—[By the Associated Press.]—Ballymacarrett, across the River Lagan from Belfast, where disorders have occurred in recent months, was again the scene of serious riots last night and this morning. Crowds looted the spirit shops and became so menacing that the police had to call on the military, who are patrolling the district with armored cars. Several baton charges occurred.

FRENCH VICE ADMIRAL DIES.
NICE, France, March 17.—Vice Admiral Jervis, president of the French naval league, died here today. He was born Dec. 29, 1835, and was made a vice admiral in 1892.

FREE SPEECH.

The situation in Ireland is enough to justify strong emotion whatever view is taken of its rights and wrongs. But there is no justification for such a disturbance as was planned and carried out to break up Sir Philip Gibbs' lecture at Orchestra hall.

This is the United States, the constitution of which declares the right of free speech. American citizens cherish that right as essential to the preservation of liberty and the achievement of progress. It is not an unlimited right, but its limits are set by law and not by the passion of partisans.

If Mr. De Valera had been in the place of Sir Philip Gibbs and British partisans had attempted to cry him down and prevent his audience from hearing him, there would have been an outcry from all his partisans and a passionate appeal to the right of free speech. When Mr. De Valera traveled throughout this country speaking to audiences he was accorded the full enjoyment of the American right of free speech. Sir Philip Gibbs is entitled to exactly the same freedom of expression. There was another right denied by the disturbers at the Orchestra hall meeting. It was the right of those in the audience to hear the lecturer. Partisans of a free Ireland should show respect for a free America. The tactics of the hecklers here and in other parts of the United States are well calculated to turn American sympathy away from the Irish cause. Certainly they are resented by all who are loyal to American principles.

STATE POLICE.

The senate committee on public welfare has allowed the representative of organized Illinois manufacturers to have spread on the minutes the notation that he is against the bill for state police as it has been recommended to the senate. The bill thus provides that the state police can be used in industrial controversies only upon the order of the governor, as is the case with the organized state militia.

That indicates the purpose of the bill. It is to create an instrument of public safety which can be used in rural districts and make as good use of good roads in catching robbers as the robbers can make of them in getting away.

The bill sticks to its main purpose and will bear all the scrutiny that labor unions, which are likely to be instinctively opposed, want to give it. The unreasonable employers have been disposed of and labor has no right to be unreasonable in return. The state needs the state police for protection.

SPLITTING UP THE FLEET.

Secretary Denby has denied a report that the fleet was to be reunited and based in the Pacific. That, he says, is an important question not to be decided so early in his term of office. As to basing the fleet in the Pacific we can agree with him, but if Mr. Denby cannot decide while he is hanging up his hat whether the fleet ought to be divided he learned little from his service in the navy.

And now comes a report from Australia that a squadron of eight American battleships with accompanying craft is to make a summer cruise in Polynesian waters. Is this a hangover from Brother Daniels' regime or a false rumor? We recall how foreign cruises were favored in days gone by, but we hope Mr. Denby's ideas are of later date. Roosevelt sent the fleet on a cruise, but there was a reason and it was the whole fleet. An alarmist might point out that eight ships represent the margin of our strength over Japan's and that a marginal stroke, like that of the Russian war, might eliminate that margin. But that would be a hazardous speculation not profitable in the long run to our neighbors across the Pacific. The objection to the junket is that while it would be of value in giving cruising experience and even maneuver training, the one would be better served by other waters in the main fleet.

Also and chiefly such enterprises are to be deprecated as setting a precedent for splitting up the fleet, which as our first line of defense should be kept at all times united and unified as a naval machine. This principle of safety and of naval efficiency ought to be established beyond the reach of naval politicians. With American relations with them are today, to ignore it is especially culpable.

GREAT BRITAIN, JAPAN, AND AMERICA.

Sidney Osborne, the American writer on Japanese subjects, says in his book, "The New Japanese Peril," that Great Britain will be forced soon to choose between Japan and the United States. British statesmen frankly admit that, but they cannot do the deciding. The worst part of the British dilemma is that the United States will decide it. If the United States promotes an understanding with Great Britain the United States will have one friend and one enemy. If the understanding with Great Britain is prevented the United States will have two enemies.

With the understanding the enemy, Japan, will be weakened and peace will be preserved. Without the understanding Japan will be strengthened and war may result.

Great Britain is the only nation with which the United States can have an understanding for the protection of peace and for its own interests. Great Britain is the only nation which in alliance with Japan can greatly increase the probability of war between the United States and Japan.

We shall not make an alliance with Great Britain and it is not suggested that we do, but we can reach an understanding and come to agreements which will satisfy the British that they do not need the Japanese alliance. Such agreements will take the menace out of Japan, turn her plans in a new direction, and completely modify her policy.

For the sake of an alliance with Great Britain Japan can afford to conciliate the parts of the British empire which now fear Japanese purposes. An agreement to keep away from British territory would be understood in the alliance, and the Japanese would keep away. But they will not, then, keep away from us.

TAX REFORM FIRST.

An advocate of giving precedence to tariff legislation at the coming special session says tax legislation will consume as much time as it would take to formulate a tariff law. That may be. So much the more reason for taking up the tax problem first.

Indecision on this question seems to us strange. There is no imports emergency. There is urgent need for tax amendment. Study of the complicated foreign trade situation and accumulation of data should go on, but if our tariff legislation is not to be merely a product of the pulls of special interests it should take form in a comprehensive way only after thorough discussion and deliberation. Hesitation over placing the tax questions first on the program has an unpleasant flavor. Interests eager for protection seem already to be on the job. We have had many years of experience of what they can accomplish at Washington. But the constructive industry and all the taxpayers of the country need tax relief and should be given it with the least possible delay consistent with considerate action.

WAR SECRETS FOR ALL.

From time to time we hear that the war department or the navy department has developed some patent device for dealing death or destroying the enemy on a Brobdingnagian scale. The latest report is of a wonderful liquid three drops of which in contact with the human flesh will kill. By sprinkling this over the enemy an army can be wiped out with ease and dispatch. A few sprinkling carts with wings and the business is done.

But what if the enemy has a deadly acid and a flock of aerial sprinklers? Ah, there we have him. The war department is working on a mackintosh or something that is proof against its own devices. And thus we see how the art of war has progressed from the spear to the shield, from the sword to the cuirass, from the gun to the trench and the dugout. Offense is the mother of defense. But if our experts are doing so well with poison gas and deadly acid and with coats to protect our men from the latter, it is necessary to announce our enterprise to the world, to set possible enemies on guard, to set possible enemies following profitable trails of thought? The Germans did not send word to the allies that they had poison gas and were going to use it. They got all the benefit they could from surprise. We are so civilian a people that we think advertising pays even in war. It doesn't.

TO DEFEAT THE SEAWAY.

The recent meeting of thirty New York organizations to discuss the construction of a ship canal from the lakes to the Atlantic entirely on American soil is being followed by the persistent circulation of literature advocating such a canal. It is proposed to substitute such a waterway for the projected St. Lawrence seaway in which the United States would have joint control with Canada.

There seems little probability that the proposed all-American improvement will gain widespread support. Such a project was investigated and rejected by American engineers twenty years ago. Another board of army engineers reported adversely upon it last November. The proposed route would contain nearly five times as much restricted channel as the St. Lawrence route, more than five times the number of locks, and would mean 450 more miles to be traveled between lake ports and Liverpool than would the St. Lawrence seaway.

In view of such facts the proposition is of interest chiefly because its consideration tends to create dangerous delay in reaching a decision on the St. Lawrence seaway. That proposition should be settled this year if possible. The longer it is delayed the greater the loss, and if opponents of the measure can continue the delay sufficiently to allow a slackening of interest they will be in a position to kill it.

The all-American alternative makes a popular appeal, but must not be allowed to thrust aside sound engineering and commercial views. In its appeal to patriotism it is likely to do a great wrong. If such a canal were built it would open the lakes to our warships in emergency. With such a possibility it is probable that Canada would develop her own route by way of the Ottawa river. Fortifications would be a logical result. All such expense and international danger would be avoided by a jointly built and controlled St. Lawrence canal. In the improbable event of war neither side could bring in warships, and there would not be a chip on any one's shoulder as would be the case if each developed a canal.

Appeals to Americanism in this matter are deceptive. The canal is a commercial, not a sentimental, proposition. As such there is but one route, the St. Lawrence. The agitation for the adoption of that route must be pressed to success before New York interests succeed in delaying the project indefinitely by distortion, and eventually killing it by delay.

Editorial of the Day

A NEW TYPE OF "BOSS."

[From the Decatur Herald.]

For the lucrative and important position of collector of the port of New York President Harding's selection was George W. Aldridge, the "boss" of Rochester.

Mr. Aldridge is credited with ruling politics of western New York state with an iron hand. He has destroyed some budding political careers. He has reduced the Democratic party in Rochester to a state of feebleness comparable to that of the same party in Macon county, Illinois.

He has done some other things. He has been the dominating force in a municipal policy that has rendered Rochester a synonym for correct public service. He has made her park system famous for its beauty and extent, her fire and police departments almost above criticism. His aim for the schools is that they shall be the best that money can buy. With them he never interferes except to strengthen the hands of school board and superintendent in bringing about improvement.

He has strengthened his position by little acts of kindness unostentatiously performed. It is said that he treats Democrats better than he does Republicans.

A "boss" that increases a community's resources instead of draining them, that insists upon public honesty instead of demanding graft and incompetence, is a marked change from a Tweed, a Croker, a Platt, or a Murphy, a type with which New York state has been all too familiar in the past.

COMMONWEALTH BUILDER

This is the ninth of a series of pen sketches of the members of President Harding's cabinet. The next and last will be a sketch of Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general.

BY EYE WITNESS.

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—They have taken a tame Buffalo Bill type of man and put him in a room that is like a great salon in a beautiful home and set him to solving problems of internal and external empire that would have given Alexander the Great something to worry about.

Along midway between sunset and sunset they ration him to a piece of apple pie and a cup of coffee—and he tolls on.

There be two architectural glories in departmental Washington, and the glory of the noble workroom of the secretary of the interior is neither Doric nor Ionic nor yet Corinthian, but of a greater glory which makes it nearly unique. There is the glory of the redwoods and of the Yosemite and of majestic Indian faces flamed in color on huge sheets of glass, and of militant stuffed Alaskan eagles that seem about to take flight down corridors blocks long, and the background of dark, lofty panels and diamond paned windows with shielded light.

Franklin K. Lane designed all this and John Barton Payne used to keep open house to all comers amid it. And now sits here the last of the great commonwealth builders, the great-grandfather and of the twelfth president of the United States and descendant of the fifth.

Let me present ALBERT BACON FALL, of New Mexico, who has been and still is most of them—Teacher, Lawyer, Pioneer, Ranch hand, Miner, Stock breeder, Lumberman, and one of the foremost authorities on international law and foreign affairs in this country.

When I read off that list to Mr. Secretary Fall he smiled rather contentedly out of golden brown eyes and from behind rimmed spectacles. And I said, "That seems to me to mean sixty pretty busy years, Mr. Secretary! How did you manage it?"

"Well, I've been a pretty hard worker," he answered, "and when I've tried to do anything on a large scale I learned from the best. I am not a regular mining engineer or geologist, but when my muscles were not so flabby as they are now I could go out with a hammer and break as much rock as the next man. And when I was mining I could put a set of timbers in a wet shaft and make it safe to work in. And so when I was in mining law and had an intricate case to try I could visualize the technical features of it to myself and to the court."

"I've always had a good deal of that from the ground up kind of work to do. I was the first man that ever developed turpentine in Mexico—I mean in the regular distillation process, for, of course, the Indians had done it in a crude way. That I did at the request of our district governor, sir."

"I carried the first sawmill into northern Mexico—on the backs of burros—and within a year I had the first hand saw mill in Mexico. In 1888-'89 I went in for the development of irrigation. That was in the Pecos valley of New Mexico. Irrigation was in its infancy then and irrigation law was being made. Then I had to learn railroad, not only so as to be the legal head for several new western roads but so as to be the actual operator. And, of course, I'm always fooling around with some mining proposition, and stock breeding I'm deeply interested in."

A fruitful life, thought I, and asked him what all the things he had done and studied he found the most interesting.

"The things," he said, "that have to do with the actual development of natural resources. That includes everything from mining, irrigation, railroads, new towns, homes for the people, the things that give men their start and stake in the world."

ESCAPING FROM "NERVES."

ENCLOSE clipping of your answer to R. W. K. Yours Very Truly writes. "This is not the first time I have thought you lacking in helpfulness to those who appeal to you. To tell a person to get self-control is not really to help very much. Why not direct him to the literature [you surely must know the proper books] that will instruct him to acquire poise and relaxation?"

"Why lead them on to hope for a solution of their little-big problems only to give words and no means to their ends?" [The writer says she hesitated about sending the letter, decided not to, then reconsidered.]

For the benefit of the readers of this column I should say you went after my pretty savagely, but that, having written your letter, you first decided not to send it and finally sent it with the signature erased.

The need of brevity as well as the wish not to repeat too frequently prevents me from giving a list of books in each public reply to letters about worry, neurasthenia, nervousness, and nervous prostration. I do print such lists from time to time, but I should not be expected to do so at short intervals.

The treatment for such disorders is social. It must be administered in the main. Books serving as textbooks for self-cure of bad mental and social habits are of service. I wish every woman subject to nervousness or nervous prostration would read Myerson's "The Nervous Housewife."

It would reveal many of them to themselves. While diagnosis is not cure, it is the first stage of cure. Many women can cure themselves once they get wise to themselves, and that "The Nervous Housewife" will do. Now that Dr. Myerson has this book of his hands, I wish he would get busy and write a companion to it. He might call it "The Nervous Husband" or "The Nervous Woman."

Dr. Myerson does not discuss how the individual nervous housewife can cure herself, leaving that to the basic good sense of the woman or to her medical counselor. But he does devote a chapter to broad general suggestions as to how to avoid the making of a class of nervous housewives. The balance of the space today will be given over to quotations showing how Myerson means by nervousness, neurasthenia, and nervous prostration.

"To be neurasthenic is to magnify the pin pricks of life into calamities and to be the victim of an abnormal state that is neither health nor disease."

He says: "A tired feeling, worse on arising than on going to bed, is a distinguishing mark of neurasthenia. The neurasthenic takes half a day to get going, and at night, when she should have the delicious drowsiness of bedtime, she is wide awake and disinclined to go to bed or to sleep. However, many neurasthenics do not have this quality of behavior."

"Neurasthenia is characterized by easily induced fatigue of mind, of purpose, or of mood. The poor housewife is a victim of this disease of occupation-nervousness. Every practicing physician, every hospital clinic, finds the nervous housewife a problem evoking pity, concern, exasperation, despair."

"She goes from specialist to specialist, orthopedic surgeon, gynecologist, X-ray man, neurologist. By the time she has completed a course of treatment she has tasted all the drugs in the pharmacopoeia, wears plates on her feet, spectacles on her nose, has had her teeth tinkered with and her insides straightened, has had a course in hydrotherapeutics, electrotherapeutics, osteopathy, and Christian Science."

AS BARBUM SO WELL SAID. G. A. writes: "I was much interested in your communication, 'Coping Popular Credulity.' My own experience with quack or rather with patent medicine users tends to confirm the Spanish or Mexican contributor's conclusions that Americans are 'drug fiends' of the first rank. It is possible that A. C. C. is limited in acquaintance with the southern half of our country, where it is almost a unanimous habit on part of both whites and blacks to have a bottle of quinine in one pocket and a calomel in the other. 'Why do you use that dose?' I asked thousands of southerners during thirty years of travel in their country. 'Ah need it for my liver,' was the reply. And, my dear doctor, have heard your worthy self held up to scorn by drug addicts for your common sense preachments of temperance in eating, drinking and general conduct. I wonder if you have mingled much with the great rural population of our central states. Any observant salesman making the rural districts will tell you that nine out of every ten families will have in evidence bottles of Hardpan's Peruna Cure or Doctor Billum's Pale Pills. Pink Pills or other equally damnable concoctions. Even so-called reputable medicines have told me they were sorry to see a fight made against patent medicine. But he does devote a chapter to broad general suggestions as to how to avoid the making of a class of nervous housewives. How to Keep Well.

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered subject to proper limitations, and where a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed, Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

BACK TO SUGAR CANE AND COTTON.

Chicago, March 15.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—I have just read the communication of F. L. Barnett, "Why Negroes Come North," as published in your Sunday edition.

I do not know if Mr. Barnett has ever lived in the south or not, but will guess he hasn't. When he speaks of Negroes being driven from their plantation homes by enforcing peonage I know he is still living in the period "before de va," as a plantation he has in mind is as obsolete as grass on State street.

He says the Negro loves the sunny south. He is right in this. He is not informed regarding lynchings, burnings, Ku-Klux, starvation wages, and labor contracts. We may not be quite as enlightened as our northern brethren in the matter of lynchings and burnings, but we are willing to concede you all do this matter up in a more business-like manner than we poor southerners. Perhaps if Brother Barnett would look into these "latter contracts" he might be surprised to find a northern party deeply mixed in the mire of these "peonage penalties."

Brother Barnett will find that the money consideration paid all classes in the north during the late war was the only reason of the Negro exodus. You can't scare a Negro, any more than you can a white man, except with "voodoo," and as soon as labor conditions are finally established on a firm basis he will find the Negro coming back home to the sugar cane and cotton, straddling a mule and riding out to "old plantation."

EX-PRESIDENTS.

Ottawa, Ill., March 15.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Fusion the ex-president says THE TRIBUNE in an editorial which shows at least a creditable side to the old style of wringing out the best that is in our executive during a few years' tenure of this difficult office and then dismissing him to the tender mercies of any old university, corporation or magazine who might care to pasture the retired racer during his declining years. But a pension suggests invalidity, and is that altogether fair to the former executive?

Today the honors are even between the major parties as to the number of ex-presidents, but as far back as 1913, when the G. O. P. carried all the honors, I wrote to certain of the press suggesting that the constitution be so amended (if necessary) as to permit that the retiring president (unless impeached) become ex-officio a member of the United States senate FOR LIFE and represent the nation at large (this to insure no inequity of representation among the states).

CONCERNING DR. GRAYSON'S PROMOTION.

Glencoe, Ill., March 15.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—In Monday's TRIBUNE "J. P. W." complains that Wilson was criticized for having promoted Dr. Grayson to the rank of admiral in the navy. If "J. P. W." will look the matter up more carefully I am sure he will find that

Dr. Grayson was not criticized for promoting Dr. Grayson, but for holding back the commissions of a number of officers who had just been promoted to the rank of captain until Congress approved of Dr. Grayson's promotion. These officers did not get their commissions until one year after they had been selected for promotion. Was not Wilson rightly criticized?

Spring Exposition Brings Everything that Is Newest and Most Becoming for LITTLE FOLK and JUNIORS

Little Miss Muffet and "Little Boy Who Lives Next Door"

All Ready for Easter Sunday—Miss Betty, Miss Peggy and Miss Nancy Jane

And Here Are Jack and Bill—They're Ready, Too

Fashion Notes for Tiny Fashionables

WHEN the little boy next door paid his party call on Little Miss Muffet he wore his new blue Devonshire suit, trimmed with bright colored gingham collar and cuffs with fluted ruffles, and his new black Milan hat and sailor boy top coat.

Little Miss Muffet knew he was coming and was quite undecided whether to wear her new rose-colored organdy with the surplice waist and three ruffles on the skirt, or the blue organdy with puffed sleeves. However, being a lady, and privileged to change her mind, she wore her lovely pink dimity with white organdy trimming.

WHEN IT COMES TO GIRLS AND JUNIORS

Yes, indeed, a Wrap! Embroidered and fashioned not at all unlike the Wraps in the Women's Section. Of novella cloth or duvetyne are the most beautiful.

For School, however, are Polo Coats, the Field Undergraduate and the bright red Blazers; for both little girls and big girls.

Smartest Hats for Juniors are trimmed; some with flowers, some with feathers, and some with ribbon bows. Milans, also, are very entrancing. And for the little girls are Milans and ruffy Hats and plain tailored Hats.

Pudgy Little Hips are no more the style today than they have ever been. And the same is true of round, stoopy shoulders. Against just this, our 4th Floor Corset Section is fitted out especially with little light weight, lightly boned underwaists and girdles just for girls.

Gray, for Dress-up Shoes and Stockings, is the newest in Junior footwear. Black or tan Oxfords are for the street.

Drop-stitch Stockings in white or cordovan, or three-quarter stockings, are for ages 6 to 12.

Getting the Younger Set Ready for Easter

The Juvenile Floor—the Fourth—is shopping headquarters for all Juvenile Chicago. Everything—their Frocks, Suits, Coats, Hats, Shoes, Gloves—are all to be had on this one floor. Thus, it takes the least number of steps and the least possible amount of time to bring the children to Marshall Field & Company to be outfitted. But more than this, is the new and always attractive styles for children to be found on the Juvenile Floor; the quality that is built right into everything that you buy. And now with our Spring Exposition at its height, the Juvenile Floor is indeed one of the busiest floors in the entire Store—getting the younger set ready for Easter.

Miss Betty

might have stepped right out of a pale lavender Easter Egg in her fluffy pastel lavender organdy. So pretty it is, indeed, that it has been duplicated in all colors for the benefit of Miss Betty's friends.

Miss Peggy

You couldn't help feeling happy in the lovely blue taffeta with let-in panels of gray Georgette with flocks of butterfly bows all over it that Miss Peggy so charmingly wears.

Miss Nancy Jane

looks as though she had just stepped out of Lady Luna Moth's cocoon in her plaid wool frock of soft greens and blues and tans, with the Tommy Tucker collar, hand-made ornaments and patent-leather belt.

SOME OF THE BIG STYLE HINTS FOR BOYS

Suits with Half Belts in the back are the newest thing this Spring. But all-around belts with Norfolk Coats like Jack's are every bit as fashionable. Both of these styles are Field Standards for ages 8 to 18 years. Some are fine navy blue serge in the unfinished worsted. Jack's is a good old tweed.

Boys Jack's age generally wear Eton colors for dress up.

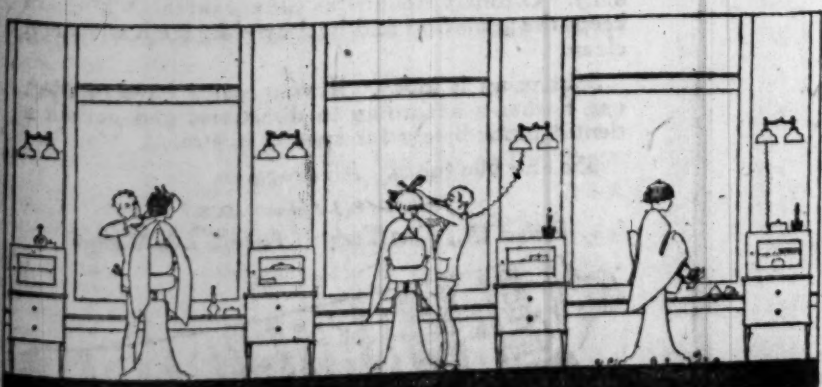

Vestee Suits, for little boys 4 to 9 years old, have vests and Tommy Tucker collars of white pique.

Bright Spring Colorings are the boys' choice this season, not only for Caps but for the stitched Alpine Cloth Hats. For smaller lads are the serge Tam o' Shan-ters in bright colors, too, and straws, some with streamers.

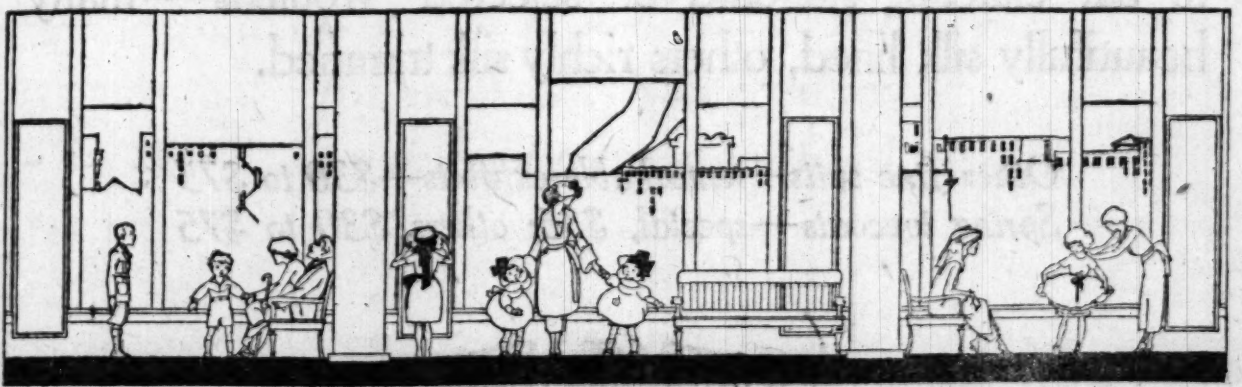

Three-quarter Length Wool Hose, worn with Oxfords, are for all ages of boys.

Tan Kid Gloves or gray silks are what is what in this line.

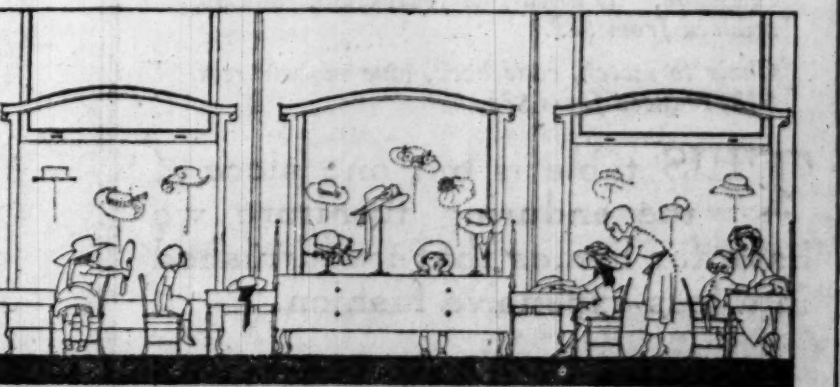

Canes for little boys are much in vogue.

DR. GUNSAULUS' LIFE HIS EULOGY, FRIENDS' TRIBUTE

Noted Educator Will Be Buried Saturday.

Public honors will be paid tomorrow to Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus, noted educator, clergyman, lecturer, and bibliophile, who died early yesterday morning at his home at 2315 Prairie avenue. For two hours—from 10 a. m. until noon—his body will lie in state in the New England Congregational church, Delaware place and Dearborn street, to give those who knew and admired him an opportunity of paying a last tribute. The funeral services will be held in the same church at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and will be public. Interment will be private.

Dr. Frederick Shannon, rector of Central church, will conduct the funeral services, assisted by Dr. Charles W. Gilkey of the Hyde Park Baptist church and Dr. Clarence T. Brown of the Austin Congregational church. The active pallbearers will be Philip Armour, Eugene Thomas, Charles Stridman, Alfred Hodge, George Allison, and Raymond Thornberg.

Death Is Peaceful.
The man who had been prominently identified with Chicago life, first as a preacher and college professor and finally as head of Armour institute, died early yesterday morning in his home. The end came peacefully two hours after he had been stricken with heart disease. He was able to recognize relatives at his bedside and to bid them farewell. Dr. Gunsaulus was 66 years of age.

All day yesterday friends and relatives of the man visited the family home on Prairie avenue. Expressions of grief came from J. Ogden Armour, B. E. Sunny, W. H. Miner, Robert H. Parkinson, Edward Butler, and John Field. Many others either called at the home or sent personal messages. The following statement was given by Mr. Armour:

"No eulogy can do justice to Dr. Gunsaulus. His life was one of achievement; his success lay in helping others to help themselves. He was a wonderful orator, a sound thinker, and a great organizer, and, most of all, a real man, who leaves the world better than he found it."

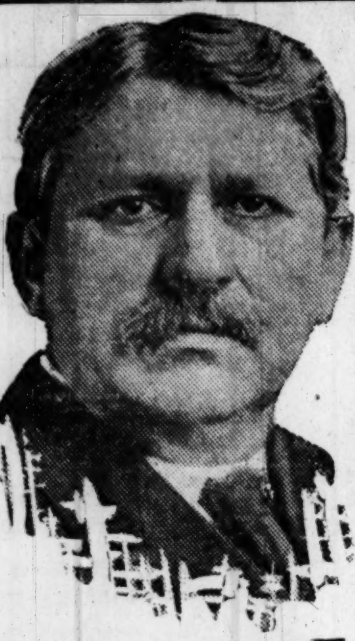

"No one associated, as I have been all my life, with such a lovable character could be other than bowed down with grief at his untimely passing."

[Signed] "J. Ogden Armour."

Death Loss to City.
His influence as a director of the Art Institute can hardly be measured," said Charles H. Burkholder, secretary and treasurer of the institute. "But it was as a personal friend that officials and employees and students here welcomed."

"The death means a great loss to the city in every way," said Harry Pratt Judson, president of the University of Chicago. "Dr. Gunsaulus was one of Chicago's most eminent and most useful men."

"One of the noblest men Chicago has ever known was Dr. Gunsaulus," said Bishop Samuel Fallows. "He was broad minded, liberal minded, and wide awake in everything pertaining to Chicago's welfare."

"He was the kindest friend I have ever had," said George Noble Carman, director of Lewis institute.

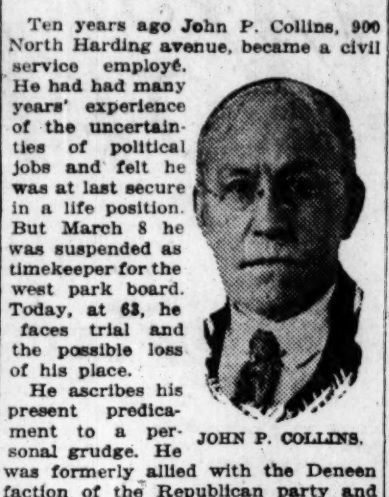

Honorary Pallbearers.

Among the list of honorary pallbearers were the following names:
J. Ogden Armour, Bishop Samuel B. E. Sunny, Frank C. Logan, Dean Louis C. Monia, Martin A. Ryerson, Dr. J. C. K. McQuinn, Harry Pratt Judson, Charles L. Hutchinson, Julius Rosenwald, John Miller, Edward B. Butler, W. H. Miner, A. C. Bartlett, John S. Field, William C. Smith, R. H. Parkinson, Berthold Laufer, George M. Reynolds, Lester Armour, Dr. H. B. Thomas, David B. Foran, E. D. Hulbert.

CARACAS NAMES STREET AND PARK FOR WASHINGTON

CARACAS, Venezuela, March 17.—A government decree issued today gives the name of Washington to a national avenue and orders the building of a new park to be called Washington park, in which the statue of Washington will be placed. The old Washington park will be named after Henry Clay and the ceremonies incident to the naming of the two parks will be held on April 19, the day the statue of Bolivar, the famous Venezuelan statesman, is to be unveiled in New York. The government decree says it is the duty of nations to perpetuate the memory of great men.

SUSPENSION IS POLITICS, SAYS MERIT BOARD MAN

Ten years ago John P. Collins, 900 North Harding avenue, became a civil service employe.

He had had many years' experience of the uncertainties of political jobs and felt "he was at last secure in a life position."

But March 8 he was suspended as timekeeper for the west park board. Today, at 63, he faces trial and the possible loss of his place.

He ascribes his present predicament to a personal grudge. He was formerly allied with the Denen faction of the Republican party and has refused many proffers to "get in the Lundin-Thompson band wagon," he says.

"I was blanketed in under civil service on July 1, 1911," said Collins. "I have been timekeeper in the repair department ever since. On March 8 William Short was installed as superintendent of employment for the west park board. His first official act was to order my suspension on charges."

The trial board, which will hear the charges today at 2 p. m. in Union park, consists of President Christian F. Wiehe, Commissioner Sheehan, and Supt. Short. Attorney R. E. Blackwood, former secretary of the Civil Service Reform association, will represent Collins.

PARALYZED, DIES OF GAS.
William Ulrich, 1723 North Washington avenue, a carpenter, was found asphyxiated by gas in the bathroom of his home late yesterday. A note he left to his wife intimated he would commit suicide. He had been suffering from paralysis.

EVANSTON MAN TO BE REVENUE BUREAU CHIEF?

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—Edward Clifford of Evanston, Ill., has become the likely appointee as commissioner of internal revenue. Mr. Clifford has the support of Senators McCormick and McKinley of Illinois and Republican National Committee member Sherman of Illinois, as well as that of Charles G. Dawes and Secretary of War Weeks.

MOVIES MAY HAVE TO OBEY 13 COMMANDMENTS

Washington, D. C., March 17.—Creation by congress of an interstate motion picture commission as a substitute for federal censorship of films was proposed in letters from Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts of the international reform bureau to film producers, made public today by Dr. Crafts. His plan follows his recent conference with film makers in New York, at which the producers agreed to undertake censorship themselves, thus eliminating the necessity of a federal censorship act.

Dr. Billings on Committee to Select Hospital Sites

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—Dr. Frank Billings of Chicago is one of a committee of four medical men appointed by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today to act in an advisory capacity in the selection of sites and types of hospitals to be erected for the care of ex-service men under legislation enacted at the recent session of congress. Other members of the committee are Dr. Frank C. White of Pittsburgh, chairman; Dr. Pierce Bailey of New York, and Dr. W. G. Bowman of Pittsburgh. Dr. Billings was a colonel in the medical department of the army during the war, being in charge of reconstruction hospitals at one time.

Burglar-Maid Cleans Up $10,000 on the North Side

When Mrs. Emma Stern of 501 Surf street reported the loss of two fur coats worth $2,200, the police speeded up their search for a woman burglar, who is said to have cleaned up $10,000 on north side jobs in the last two months. Calling herself Mary Murphy, this woman hires out as a servant and robs her employer's home at the first opportunity.

Broker Held on Charge of Embezzling $1,050

Mack Leavitt, a broker with office at 139 North Clark street, was booked at the detective bureau last night on a fugitive warrant charging him with embezzlement. The complaint was signed by H. B. Jackson of the Jackson Investment company, Cincinnati. He is charged with having embezzled $1,050. Leavitt denied the charge. He was released on bond.

A Danger Warning—Bleeding Gums

Are your gums tender? Do they bleed when brushed? If so—watch out for Pyorrhea.

This disease of the gums, which afflicts four out of five people over forty, not only destroys the teeth, but often wrecks the health.

In Pyorrhea, the gums become spongy, then recede; the teeth decay, loosen and fall out—or must be extracted to rid the system of the infecting Pyorrhea germs which breed in pockets about them. These germs lower the body's vitality and cause many diseases.

You can keep Pyorrhea away. Visit your dentist often for tooth and gum inspection, and use Forhan's For the Gums.

Forhan's For the Gums prevents Pyorrhea—or checks its progress, if used in time and used consistently. Ordinary dentifrices cannot do this. Forhan's keeps the gums firm and healthy—the teeth white and clean.

Start using it today. If your gums have receded, use Forhan's according to directions, and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

FOES REGISTER 1,000 'FLOATERS,' ALDERMAN SAYS

Adamkiewicz Threatens Appeal to Courts.

Stanley Adamkiewicz of the seventeenth ward blew the lid off the supplemental aldermanic campaign yesterday with charges that more than 1,000 "floaters" were registered in his ward last Tuesday and at the last previous registration on Feb. 1.
Backers of Thomas P. Devereaux, a candidate, the Thompson-Lundin candidate, who will fight it out with Adamkiewicz on April 5, are held responsible by the latter for the "floaters."

On Tuesday the ward, with a population of only 56,645, registered 861 floaters. The twenty-ninth ward, with 103,116 inhabitants, registered only 743.
Both wards have contests. Ald.
Adamkiewicz charged that the size of the registration in his ward is unexplained "except on the floater theory."

Will Appeal to Courts.
"They brought them in from the fourteenth and fourteenth wards," the alderman declared to his colleagues in the city hall. "I am going to send registered letters to every registrant whom I suspect of being a floater or repeater. I intend to ask the courts to have these men enjoined from voting April 5."

"My investigators tell me several names carried the names and addresses under which they registered pasted in the tops of their hats, so they would not forget."

"In an attempt to make me lose my home precinct, the Third, 40 men were registered under supervision of the Farquhar, ward superintendent.
Any of the men are unknown to me and I am having them investigated."

Bares "Pay Roll Brigade."
Ald. Adamkiewicz also charged the street bureau pay roll, for the ward has been overladen in an effort to put down the over. He exhibited a copy of the most recent pay roll, which contained 62 names.

"Heretofore the highest number of street cleaners we have had in the city is one of the smallest in the city, in 24," he said.

Will It Bring Down Rents?

No worry with labor troubles if you buy this house. It will come in pieces, some via mail or parcel post, perhaps, but it'll be all there in the end.

Hundreds of passers-by—recently have been stopping at Independence admire a neat looking bungalow. It has four rooms and a breakfast alcove.

The house is portable and easily erected.

It is completely equipped with elec-plumbing, and gas pipes. It has a concrete foundation and a cement basement. It is built of yellow pine and Washington fir. The price, $3,100, covers everything, except freight or

ANTI-CITY HALL CLAN TO IGNORE MEETING TODAY

When the Lundin-Thompson members of the Republican county committee gather in the rose room at the Great Northern hotel at 2 o'clock this afternoon, they will find that they have the meeting to themselves.

Word to stay away from the meeting was sent out yesterday to all Brundage-Deneen members of the committee, and it is considered certain that not one of them will show up.
Leaders of the anti-city hall forces contend the meeting is not in conformity with the law.

Barrett Slated for Chairman.
Charles V. Barrett, member of the board of review and Eleventh ward representative on the committee, is the man the city hall people planned to elect today to replace Mr. Galpin.

Several of their optimistic forecasters claim that they will rule the judicial convention as a result of the Brundage-Deneen support thrown to James Hamilton Lewis last fall. The law allows the ward committeemen one vote for each fifty votes cast in the last preceding gubernatorial election for the party nominee.

On this basis in several Brundage-Deneen wards where Small's vote was cut the committeemen lose proportional voting strength in the county committee. Anti-city hall leaders deny, however, the losses will give the city hall control.

Democrats Call Convention.
The Democratic county convention has been called for April 26, the day following the Republican, and the selection of this date has added weight to the general belief that the Democratic slate may include the names of some Republicans if any sitting judges

The best of woollens and for Britain's wonderful rep-

And because Britain makes such wonderful cloth, many ships from the other

It costs money to move

COUNTY WANTS TO KNOW SMALL'S HIGHWAY POLICY

Board Asks Data on Lower Prices Prospects.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

The road and bridge committee of the county board voted unanimously yesterday to request Gov. Small to make known his policy and program on good road construction this year.

In view of reports from Springfield the committee instructed President Ryan to write the governor asking the following information which the committee said "will be of great value" to the commissioners:

1. What progress has been made in obtaining lower prices?
2. How much approximately is it anticipated that prices will be reduced?
3. When does the governor believe he will be able, if not now, to make a statement on the subject?
4. Are any changes in the specifications contemplated? If so, to what extent are they to be modified, if a decision has been reached?
5. And such other information as the governor thinks would be of service to us in the construction of permanent highways.

Holds Good Roads Imperative.
The reasons for these inquiries are explained in the preamble of the resolution. It asserts that the commissioners "are convinced that permanent highways are not only of economic but of real financial benefit to this community, and any unnecessary delay in their construction is of disadvantage—if not a positive detriment and hindrance to the proper development of this county."

It is recited that the state prescribes the specifications upon which roads must be constructed in Cook county, and that it is the "fixed policy of the board" to obtain the lowest price consistent with good and reliable work.

As the county has a program to build thirty-one and one-half miles this year, involving an expenditure of $1,699,000 at present prices, the commissioners assert they feel entitled to ask whether there is going to be any changes in the specifications and whether any plans are on foot to reduce costs in which the governor feels he has hope of success.

State Specifications Changed.
Recently the state has ordered a change in specifications. This reduces the thickness of the pavement from eight to seven inches and requires that the seven inch pavement be reinforced with iron bars.

At the same meeting the county commissioners passed the Tom Murray resolution requesting the state to investigate and determine whether the claim of George W. Jackson that he can reduce the cost of roads one-third is correct. But that was not all. The committee also instructed Superintendent of Highways Quinlan to "collect and correlate such information and data, as is readily obtainable, with reference to highway construction this year throughout the United States in comparison with previous like periods."

Mr. Jackson will be invited to appear before the committee next Thursday and explain the system.

New Illuminated Traffic Signal Post at Sheridan and Diversey, and Its Guardian.

POLICEMAN DAVID GOLDEN.

If you own a motor car and live on the north side, no doubt you have noticed the new traffic signal post at Sheridan and Diversey boulevard. It is unusually high, is lighted at the top in such manner that the crossing policeman stands directly in a glare—where the motorists can plainly see his signals, and has illuminated letters, advising motorists to "slow down," "turn to the right," or "drive slow," as befits the occasion.

Policeman David Golden, who is stationed beneath the large globe, asserts it is "the safest post for a policeman."

SEE WHAT CENSOR DID WITH DAWES' WAR EMPHASIS!

Washington, D. C., March 17.—Congressional authorities agree that Charles G. Dawes of Chicago is the author of the government printer's "best seller." The supply of copies of his testimony before the house war investigating committee, it was learned today, has long been exhausted, yet demands still pour in by every mail.

Everybody, including dignified members of the senate, sought to read the vivid remarks of Gen. Pershing's former purchasing chief in the original. They were unaware, apparently, that the official blue pencil had operated on the "damns" and "hells" and "Marx" and similar illustrations Gen. Dawes employed. A new edition may be necessary, it was said.

BURGERS MAKE $5,000 HAIL.
While Mrs. Edna Kelly, proprietor of a woman's furnishing shop at 107 East Forty-seventh street, was away from her flat at 4700 Wadsworth avenue yesterday, burglars forced their way into the flat and obtained clothing, furs, and jewelry worth $5,000.

BERLIN TOLD OF PLOT TO SEIZE BAVARIAN RULE

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

BERLIN, March 17.—Documents exposing details of a plot for a Bavarian royalist revolution and the establishment of Crown Prince Rupprecht as king and permitting the French army to occupy the country were handed over today to Berlin government officials by President Vitus Heiler of the Bavarian Christian Socialists' party.

As a result of the disclosure Count Bothmer, who, President Heiler says, went to Mavence to meet Gen. De-goutte, will be tried for treason, it is declared by the German authorities. President Heiler alleges that Count Bothmer told Gen. Degoutte of the French army, that George Heim, the so-called uncrowned king of Bavaria, desired to meet the French minister Barthou in Switzerland to discuss the affair.

As part of the plan, he alleges, French troops were to occupy the Weiser river line, cooperating with Gen. Dannenberg, the Guelph leader. The French were to proceed to the Czechoslovakian border along the river Main, thus cutting Bavaria from Prussia.

President Heiler further alleges that it was planned that the gorch and other armed civilian organizations should suppress workmen.

COURT REFUSES TO FORBID SALE OF CO-OP STOCK

Foell Denies Petition of Attorney General.

Judge Charles M. Foell yesterday denied a petition filed by Attorney General Brundage for an injunction restraining trustees of the Cooperative Society of America from selling stock, claiming he was without power to grant the petition.

Attorney General Brundage charged that the trustees, Harrison Parker, John Cox, and N. A. Hawkinson violated section 24 of the Illinois securities law in failing to register their securities with Secretary of State Louis Emerson.

Stock Listed, Not Registered.
Attorney Harris F. Williams for the defense contended it was merely necessary to list the stock, not to register it, and that it had been listed in class A.

The state argued Judge Foell could regulate the sale of securities, whether listed or not, by an injunction order.

Can't Interfere, Judge Holds.
"Neither this court nor the secretary of state can interfere with the sale of stock unless it is registered," Judge Foell said.

"Trustees of the concern have the right to decide themselves the classification of their stocks. If, however, a company arbitrarily puts stocks in class A, which should be registered in class D, criminal action may be instituted against the offenders."

The state contended the securities should have been placed in class D. Judge Foell gave the state permission to file an amended bill of complaint. The only other recourse is criminal action.

BANDITS' ROPE STRANGLES HER TO DEATH

New York, March 17.—Mrs. Henrietta Defelicio, mother of nine children, was strangled to death, and Mrs. Rosa Menditto, a nurse, was gagged and bound by four holdup men who entered their home in Brooklyn late this afternoon and demanded money and jewelry.

In trussing up the two women the robbers thrust a towel into Mrs. Defelicio's mouth. To keep it in place they passed a rope around her face. One coil slipped down around her throat and was pulled so tight that it strangled her.

Mrs. Menditto said all the bandits had appeared less than 23 years old. None of them was masked. Detectives said they had obtained a description of them from Mrs. Menditto and also finger prints. The bandits escaped with $2,500 in money and jewelry.

Judge Hoffheimer said Bateman told him he found the bonds in an outside booth of the safety department of a Cincinnati bank. He willingly returned the bonds and was released by Chicago police when John H. Finn, owner of the bonds, refused to prosecute.

BOOZE'S "BELLS" DRIVE RICH MAN'S SON TO SUICIDE

Maddened by the tireless clamor of imaginary bells set in motion by liberal helpings from a medicinal whiskey bottle, Louis Jack, son of a wealthy bottle manufacturer in Streator, Ill., shot himself through the right temple in a flat on the south side early yesterday. He died before help arrived.

Jack, who is 38 years old, had been living at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Bray, 4640 Lake Park avenue. She said he was the son of M. W. Jack, president of the American Bottle company of Streator. He had been dependent for several days and had complained of debts which he was unable to pay.

"I've known him for about three years," she said.

Despondent After Card Party. Early Wednesday evening he bought a bottle of medicinal whiskey. About 7 o'clock he visited the flat just below mine where Mrs. Clara Perry was giving a card party. He was despondent when he returned at 11 o'clock. I was awakened an hour later.

"Those bells, O, those bells," he cried. "How they are ringing." He was quiet a few minutes then he spoke again. "Please, those," he said, "won't you see what makes the bells ring?"

"When did you next hear from him," questioned the coroner.

"It was about 7 o'clock. I heard him groaning. I tried his door, but it was locked."

Find Bullet Wound. "I called Mrs. Perry, then the janitor. He forced the door open. Jack was lying partly on the bed and partly on the floor. I sent Mrs. Perry for towels. When we placed them on his head we noticed the wound in his right temple. A 32 caliber revolver was in his hand.

"Did you call a physician?"

"Yes. Jack died after the doctor arrived."

Both women testified the key to the door was in the pocket of the coat.

BANK OF KINDNESS

Draw a Check on It for the Unfortunate.

BY REV. G. A. MACWHORTER. The Alexian Brothers hospital is seeking funds for a $200,000 addition to its buildings. This is needed, according to the annual report of the hospital, for a training school for men nurses, of whom there is a serious shortage.

"We have needed this for a year," said Brother Hospitius Redel. "Only lack of funds and high building costs have prevented it. We hope to find some person or group of persons financially able and sufficiently charitable inclined to help us."

The report states that 3,387 patients were in the hospital last year. Of these 760 received treatment free and 301 were able only to make small payments. Among them were 1,901 Roman Catholics, 1,095 Protestants, 218 Jews and 175 who professed no religious belief.

"We wish to thank the members of the Alexian Brothers Aid society and our many other benefactors," said Brother Redel. "We want them to know they have our heartfelt gratitude."

MAN DIES ON "L" TRAIN.

"LIQUID DEATH" HIS INVENTION, CHEMIST CLAIMS

An announcement recently of the discovery by the chemical warfare service of a liquid poison so strong that three drops will kill any one whose skin it touches, has brought a protest from A. Frank-Phillipson, a prominent Chicago chemist.

Correspondence made public by Mr. Frank-Phillipson yesterday indicates that he had offered the government just such a poison in August, 1917, and was the first man to suggest the use of airplanes to distribute "liquid death."

"A short time after America entered the war I conceived the idea," he said, "and offered it to the government with some other ideas. But nothing was ever done about it, although I got an acknowledgment of my letter. Now

I see the poison has been 'discovered.'"

His idea was to equip airplanes with huge tanks containing various liquids in compressed form, so that when the valves of the tanks were opened the chemicals would be released in an atomized state, the atomized liquids combining to form drops of the poison. The poison, striking the skin, would eat into it, causing death.

To kill only vegetable matter or to set fire to inflammable matter, Mr. Frank-Phillipson suggested certain changes in the chemicals. He also devised a means of killing persons in such impregnable positions as Heligoland and Cuxhaven. In this case he advised the use of a rain containing life destroying germs and microbes which would contaminate the air when the liquid evaporated.

"I realize, of course, the extreme destruction involved in the use of such means," Mr. Frank-Phillipson wrote, "but believe that the use of such weapons may achieve the desired result and possibly prevent war in the future."

Mr. Frank-Phillipson has offices in the Peoples Gas building. He was chemical expert for Armour & Co. during the war. He never heard further from the government and believes some one is now taking advantage of his suggestions.

SOUTHWEST SIDE ASKS BRIDGE OVER DRAINAGE CANAL

Representatives of more than forty big industries of the southwest side, Cicero and Clearing, appeared before the engineering committee of the sanitary district yesterday and urged the immediate erection of a bridge over the drainage canal at Crawford avenue.

Part of the bridge site is in the city of Chicago and part outside. This fact, the trustees told the petitioners, has been an obstacle in the way of a bridge. It was stated that petitions are being circulated to annex a part of Cicero to Chicago to eliminate the objection.

Some of the industries also urged a bridge at Cicero avenue, but members of the finance committee, of which James H. Rawley is chairman, doubted whether the district will have funds for two bridges this year.

At the regular board meeting in the afternoon, bids were opened for 1,500 feet of overflow sewer as a part of the Calumet intercepting sewer system designed to divert all south side sewage from Lake Michigan.

The Movies as a Career for Girls - is it dangerous?

WHAT of the perils and temptations supposed to be inevitable to life in the movies? Are the influences necessarily vulgarizing and demoralizing? Can a girl get ahead and still retain her innocence, modesty, refinement and dignity?

Does it offer the glittering opportunities that we are led to believe? Are the salaries really so fabulous? What truth is there in the extravagant tales of the million-dollar country estates, the high-powered motor cars, the jewels and the Russian wolf hounds of the screen favorites?

How does one go about it to get a start? What part does pull play? By what qualities is a girl judged?

Do you know how tall you should be? What should be your weight? Just what sort of face you must have to photograph well?

Does it pay to have a moving-picture "test" made before applying to a manager? What sort of photographs should you send? How much salary can you expect at the start? How rapidly can you hope to rise from "extra girl" to star?

These are questions which thousands of ambitious girls and thousands of anxious mothers of aspiring daughters have asked Pictorial Review to answer.

In Pictorial Review for April, Benjamin B. Hampton, one of the pioneers of the moving-picture industry, gives detailed, specific information on all these points.

He explodes a lot of false notions and tells clearly just what the situation actually is.

Would you like to learn how to get into the movies? If so, you must read this article.

"Do you want to get into the movies?"

Do you know the meaning of your dreams?

SINCE the beginning of time, mankind has striven to find a key to dreams. Instinctively they felt that dreams had a meaning. And they went to the soothsayers and asked for interpretations.

And now—not magic but science has furnished the clue.

Do you ever dream that you are flying?—or falling?—or that you are in some public place without your proper clothing?—or that you are endlessly trying to pack a trunk or do some other necessary and important thing? Have you had the same dream over and over—ever since you were a child?

Nearly everyone has had these dreams and wondered what they meant.

Psychologists have discovered that dreams are veiled pictures of the things in our lives that are most vitally important to us.

In dreams we act out, in disguised forms, all our deepest hopes and fears, loves and hates. And in dreams we find symbolical fulfilment of our deepest desires.

Through the new science of dream analysis these veiled pictures can be interpreted, and the meaning of our dreams revealed to us at last.

H. Addington Bruce in the first of a series of three illuminating and fascinatingly interesting articles on "Dreams and Their Meaning" in Pictorial Review explains just how this is done.

Is marriage really breaking down?

DO you believe that the only way to abolish divorce is to abolish marriage? Can you agree that marriage takes love out of the romantic and puts it into the economic column?

Will you admit that divorce may be more decent than marriage?

However you may feel about it, the hard, cold fact is that the old forms of marriage are breaking down.

Statistics show that divorces are increasing—but that marriages are increasing also.

What are the old things that must go? What are the moths that Helen Ring Robinson found the women of war-ridden Europe shaking out of marriage—in France, in England, in Germany, in Czecho-Slovakia? Must the women of America follow suit?

Read Helen Ring Robinson's article in Pictorial Review for April, and then ask yourself how you would answer these questions.

SMALLER PAYERS OF INCOME TAX TO ESCAPE RAISE

Present Normal Rates
Are to Remain.

ARTICLE NO. 12.

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—In casting about for new sources of revenue to make up for the repeal of the excess profits tax and other objectionable taxes congress under no circumstances will increase the present normal tax on individual incomes.

An increase in some of the lower surtax rates is possible to offset reductions in present excessive surtaxes on the largest incomes. This move will meet with considerable opposition, because of the fact that it might be considered contrary to the Republican program for a lightening of the tax burden.

As a purely political proposition, congress realizes it would be difficult to attempt to boost the present normal tax rates of 4 and 8 per cent on individual incomes.

Normal Rates Are Safe.

While the annual report of former Secretary of the Treasury Houston included estimates of possible increases in normal income taxes among a list of possible new sources of revenue, no one has any intention of giving serious consideration to the proposition.

These estimates of treasury experts were to the effect that by increasing the normal income tax from 4 to 6 per cent and from 8 to 12 per cent there would be an additional annual yield of $150,040,000. By increasing the normal rates only to 5 and 10 per cent respectively the additional yield would be $75,470,000. If the 4 per cent rate on net incomes of less than $4,000 were left as at present and the 8 per cent rate on incomes above $4,000 increased to 12 per cent, the additional revenue would amount to $102,090,000.

Unless a sales tax should be adopted there appears no possibility of any reduction in the present normal tax on individual incomes. It might, however, be possible, even without a sales tax, to increase the present exemptions, which in effect would be equivalent to a reduction in taxes of the small taxpayer.

Would But Increase Tax.

An indication of what might be done in the event of adoption of a sales tax is given in a bill which is being drafted by Representative Bacharach of New York, a Republican member of the House ways and means committee. This bill, which will be introduced early in the coming special session, provides for a tax on final retail sales and reduces the normal income tax on individual incomes from 4 to 3 per cent.

The National Retail Dry Goods association, which has presented a scheme involving a 1 per cent tax on gross sales or turnover, favors the increase in the exemption on individual incomes from $1,000 to $2,500 for single persons and from $2,000 to $5,000 for heads of families with an increase of the additional exemption for dependents from $200 to $500. Inasmuch as the turnover tax would raise twice as much money as the final retail sales tax, the Bacharach bill necessarily provides for the retention of surtaxes and various other taxes which are eliminated under the plan of the organization of dry goods dealers.

Plan Business Approves.

The committee on taxation of the chamber of commerce of the United States recommended that a considerable portion of the revenue which would be lost by the repeal of the excess profits tax be derived from moderate increases in the lower surtaxes on individual incomes. This proposal was rejected in the referendum conducted by the chamber among its members and organizations by a vote of 571 to 1,094.

Even apart from the question of a substitute for the excess profits tax, there will be pressure for increases in lower surtax rates to make up for the loss of revenue from the reduction in the present surtaxes which range as high as 65 per cent.

The present surtaxes on individual incomes are estimated to yield during the fiscal year 1922, $90,000,000. If the suggestion of the treasury department for the reduction of surtaxes on saved or reinvested income to a maximum of 20 per cent were adopted it would mean a loss in revenue of $230,000,000. Treasury experts have worked out a revised table of surtaxes with increases in the lower brackets, which would make up for this loss of $230,000,000.

Proposed Surtax Raise.

not exceed $6,000 would be 2 per cent instead of 1 per cent as at present. The surtax on the amount of income between $6,000 and $8,000 would be 5 per cent instead of 2 per cent as at present.

The surtax on the amount between $8,000 and $10,000 would be 10 per cent instead of 3 per cent as at present. On the amount between $10,000 and $15,000 the rate would be increased to 15 per cent, the present rate being 4 per cent. Between $15,000 and $20,000 5 per cent instead of 3 per cent. On an income between $20,000 and $25,000 the surtax would be made 15 per cent, the present rate being 10 per cent. Between $25,000 and $30,000 20 per cent instead of 15 per cent. A rate of 20 per cent is suggested for the amount between $30,000 and $40,000 instead of present rates ranging from 9 per cent to 13 per cent.

To Encourage Reinvestment.

The rate on income saved and reinvested in taxable property steps at 20 per cent under the suggested revised rates. The higher rates apply on the remainder of the income. The rate of 25 per cent is proposed on an income between $30,000 and $40,000 instead of present rates ranging from 14 to 18 per cent.

The surtax on income between $40,000 and $50,000 is made 30 per cent instead of from 19 to 23 per cent as at present. The rate on income between $50,000 and $75,000 is made 35 per cent instead of from 24 to 26 per cent as at present.

A 40 per cent surtax is imposed on incomes between $75,000 and $100,000 instead of from 36 to 48 per cent as at present. The maximum surtax in this revised schedule is 50 per cent on an income above $100,000 instead of present rates ranging from 50 to 65 per cent.

This 1921 Fighter Won by Daring Advertising

"Sell laundry soap!" ordered his boss. The letter below tells how he sold it through a clothing store when the grocers wouldn't buy. In this instance the merchant did the advertising, but the wise manufacturer will not depend upon his dealers to do his advertising for him. In these strenuous times the fighting manufacturer does the advertising himself and makes sure that his goods are moving from the shelves in thousands of stores—backing up fighting salesmen with aggressive newspaper advertising.

1921 FIGHTERS' CONTEST, Chicago Tribune.

Any salesman that has not yet realized the facts of your slogan that "1921 will reward fighters" is doomed, as far as success is concerned, for the year 1921, and so is his house. The larger manufacturers I think are aware of this fact but the small jobbers we specialty men do business with are laying down on the job, requesting return of merchandise or assistance from the manufacturers to sell stocks they own, claiming the item is dead in their territory.

One of the hardest products to sell at this time is soap, owing to the fact that most grocers have small butcher shops and are aware that fats are way down in price; in fact, no sale at all for them in some localities, thereby causing them to not buy soap, as they are sure they are going to buy cheaper soap later. Some merchants are such poor fighters they are refusing to buy soaps they have steady calls for, believing that to be out of the good seller will sell the dead stock of slow sellers. The fighting competitor, of course, runs a special on this out item and adds on a new customer or two at the expense of the dead one.

Some three weeks ago I received authority to sell certain laundry soap of ours at just $1.95 per box off our regular list price, we making up the difference to the jobber as this was considerable less than he could buy it. I called on the 27 grocers of Jacksonville, sold 18 of them, all small orders. None of them would believe this was a special price, nor could they see any merchandising value in the article.

I had far from accomplished my purpose, so called on the two local newspapers, told the advertising managers I wanted to know who they had who was awake to the present business conditions and realized the increased necessity of advertising. They referred me to a young fellow's store, who is only 24 years of age, a graduate of Illinois University, Jewish, and a member of a family of St. Louis merchants.

This store was a clothing store, not as logical as a grocery for my proposition, but I put the proposition up to him, suggesting selling my soap at cost, as a means of getting the people into his store. He was a fighter to the extent of 100 boxes, no guarantees made or conditional in any way, as far as we were concerned, except that I would write his advertising copy.

The Saturday this soap went on sale was very bad weather and two large farm sales in the country to keep the farmers out of town, but even under conditions that gave his "non-fighting" competitors a blank for the day gave him an $1,800 day and sold him out of soap in a few hours.

You can judge for yourself what my customer thought of the sale by the way he increased his advertising space on the next Saturday's sale, using your slogan, "1921 will reward fighters."

I, as a fighter, was able by the methods described to sell him 440 boxes of another product, and I want you to know this ad caused more talk and produced the largest crowd I ever saw in a retail store; they had to close up for a few minutes at a time till those inside could be waited on. Two glasses were broken out of the back of the front windows by the mob.

From the result of this I again sold him a larger order of soap; same was sold last Saturday, the 12th, and today sold him my closing order, including four of our soap products, and am planning a combination sale of these items for Saturday, Feb. 19th, and am leaving him well sold with our full line, after four weeks' work in a town that could ordinarily be worked in a couple of days by a man who hadn't read your slogan, "1921 will reward fighters."

As a closing tip let me say that any business man will do well to use your slogan on his next sale advertising, as we found that it's the sentiment of the buying public. Also 1921 will reward the fighter who realizes the value of advertising—increased advertising.

Yours truly,
(Signed) F. R. SHAW,
The Cudahy Packing Co.
Old Dutch Cleanser Dept.

THE above is one of ten letters awarded $100 each as examples of the truth of the slogan: "1921 Will Reward FIGHTERS." These letters are being printed in booklet form. You will find every one of them an inspiration. A copy will be mailed to any one sending a stamped, return No. 10 size envelope to the Business Survey of The Chicago Tribune.

HARDING WANTS TAX REVISION FIRST, IS BELIEF

Party White House Dinner
May Decide.

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

Washington, D. C., March 17.—[Special.]—Republican members of the House ways and means committee in a conference today reiterated their belief that tariff legislation should have precedence over tax revision.

Information reaching them, however, was to the effect that President Harding was leaning toward giving precedence to tax revision as urged by Republican Leader Mondell, Representative Longworth, and a number of senators.

It is understood the matter will be finally thrashed out at a dinner at the White House early next week attended by all Republican members of the Senate finance committee and the House ways and means committee. If the president finally decides that tax revision should go first the ways and means committee will begin hearings.

Mellon Has Tax Hearings.

It was learned that Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is holding conferences with the tax experts of the treasury department to map out a program on tax legislation for recommendation to Congress. Dr. Thomas S. Adams of Yale university, who was the chief adviser of the secretaries of the treasury during the Democratic régime, is acting in the same capacity under the new administration. The recommendations of Secretary Mellon as to administrative changes in the revenue law are expected to be substantially the same as those of former Secretary of the Treasury Houston. It is expected also that on various questions of policy the two administrations will be in accord. Mr. Mellon indicated today that he had not as yet made up his mind on the desirability of a sales tax. Dr. Adams is strongly opposed to it.

Agreeable to Committee Plan.

Secretary Mellon is strongly of the opinion that tax legislation should be taken up at the earliest possible moment in order that business interests may know what taxes will apply to earnings of the year. He has offered no objection, however, to the plan favored by the majority of the Republican members of the Senate finance committee and the House ways and means committee.

SLAIN BY SUITOR

Rockford Girl Shot Dead by Discarded Sweetheart, Who Then Killed Himself.

HELEN WILSON.

LETTERS OF GIRL AND SLAYER TELL TRAGEDY STORY

Suicide Talked About Her, She Wrote.

Rockford, Ill., March 17.—[Special.]
—Four letters were found yesterday
among the personal effects of Arthur Bauscher, the wealthy Freeport florist, who late Wednesday night shot and killed Miss Helen Wilson of Freeport and then killed himself. According to Assistant State's Attorney Shelby L. Large, they tell the story of the tragedy.

Three of the letters are signed by Miss Wilson. The fourth was written by the dead man, but never mailed.
The first of Miss Wilson's letters read:
"Hello, Honey, little sweetheart.
Are you cross, so cross that you won't see me this evening? Don't be cross with me—remember that song. Well, let's play that way and quit quarreling. It's silly, isn't it?"

"What say you, honey bug? You know I love you so. Why worry over me like writing letters? I'll forgive you once more and we'll be happy. Let's see how long we can agree and be happy."

Letters Tell of Discard.
The next letter was written from Rockford. The temperature had obviously dropped.

"Dear Art: Well, it is sure hard to think of leaving here. I hate Freeport, there is so much gossip, everybody knocking a person. Well, we will be better friends if we don't work together, don't you think so? We don't have to work together just because we go together, do we? Be good."

The third letter was written on March 14.

"Dear Art: I just can't come to the dance. Perhaps you know why. I should have known. The boys all tol-me so. You talked of other girls to me, and I might have known that I was next in line."

"I Hate a Liar."
"Don't talk of me, don't tell your friends about me. You said that I asked you for a ring. Now you know better than that. You know you offered it to me. I'm sorry, Art, but I hate a liar. You don't and never have cared for me. I'm sorry, Art. I sorry that you have to talk so much.
It's your one big failing."

"Good-bye. Let's forget that we were anything more than friends. Let us be friends. Try to tell the truth, Art.
Good-bye."

In the dead man's pocket the assistant state's attorney found the following note, scribbled on rough paper and signed "Art":

"Dear Helen: You have me all wrong. You are hearing only one side of the story. Good luck, girl. You surely were a good girl. I will never forget you, I am, as ever, Art."

Tragedy at Interurban Station.
The fatal shooting occurred at the interurban station in this city. Bauscher had alighted from a car. As Miss Wilson came down the steps he whipped out a small automatic and shot her. Then he placed the gun against his head and pulled the trigger. It all happened so quickly a score of passengers who had been riding on the car could do nothing to interfere.

Standing on the station platform was Clarence Withdon, an automobile sales man, who was Miss Wilson's former husband. The dead woman secured a divorce three weeks ago, but according to her mother had planned to remarry Withdon.

HAVE YOU LOST A POCKETBOOK?
Detective Sergeant Joseph Thomas of the East Chicago avenue station yesterday found a small pocketbook at North avenue and Orleans street. It contained only a few tokens, the details of which he is anxious

D'ANDREA, WEARY OF 19TH'S FEUD, QUITS POLITICS

Italian Leader Gives Way to End Bloodshed.

"I'm through with Nineteenth ward politics for good."

Anthony D'Andrea, defeated candidate for alderman against Ald. "Johnny" Powers, sang his swan song as an Italian political leader in that sentence yesterday.

It was a sequel to the three murders which featured the battle between the Italian and Powers for the Nineteenth ward council seat.

D'Andrea withdrew, through his attorney, William Navigato, his contest against Ald. Powers, filed with the city council a week ago.

"Disgusted with Whole Thing."
"I'm disgusted with the whole thing," said D'Andrea, who claims to be Democratic ward committeeman under the election of 1919. "I'm through with Nineteenth ward politics for good. I am being blamed for happenings of which I know nothing.
My wife and children are sick of it and so am I."

Some time ago we held a little meeting to arrange for a dance to raise funds for the boys injured in the bomb explosion just before the election. It was reported that at that meeting the killing of Raimondi and Lahriola was planned.

"That was a lie, but the best way to stop such lies is for me to quit.
If Ald. Powers will take care of the Italian element in the ward he can have his own way from now on for all I care. Politics has cost me a lot of money and got me nothing but trouble."

May Move Out of Ward.
D'Andrea was asked whether he would make good on his threat to move out of the ward if he lost his contest against Ald. Powers.

A letter signed by William F. Forrester, president of the union, and E. F. Forrester, recording secretary, informs the members the voting will end on March 25 and the result will be announced at the next union meeting, on April 2.

The high cost of janitorial is going up-to the janitor this time instead of to the landlord. It announces that dues for all members have been raised to $5 a quarter, that no janitor who has more than one building will be allowed to have a helper, without the permission of the board of business agents, and that in any event a helper must pay the full dues.

Helpers who were union members before July 1 last may become full fledged janitor members on payment of $25, the letter states, while those who have joined the union since that date must pay $50.

PETTY GRAFTING FIRES TWO COPS;
3 FACE TRIAL
Petty graft charges cost two policemen their jobs yesterday and Chief Fitzmorris made St. Patrick's day unlucky for three more by ordering them before the trial board on charges of drunkenness.

The board found Patrolman Edward J. McGinnis guilty of taking $5 from Amatori Lasuti, a peddler, on Nov. 5, for "inspecting his license." McGinnis was ordered dismissed.

Patrolman George H. Carleton threatened John Givens, another peddler, with arrest, then added, "What will you give me if I don't take you to the station?" according to the testimony.
Givens testified he gave Carleton $4.50.
Carleton was ordered dismissed.

Those charged with intoxication are Patrolmen William J. McMullen, Thomas N. Bassett, and Operator Maurice Murphy. Patrolman Joseph Walsh was suspended for failure to report at the riving Park station when transferred from Maxwell street.

A HANDY MAN AROUND THE HOUSE

MISSING TELLER, SHY $400, FOUND AS RESERVE AID

Youth Is Trapped at Bowling Alley.
Raymond J. Forrester of 3641 Ravenswood avenue, a transcript clerk employed in the Chicago Federal Reserve bank, was arrested last night and identified as the paying teller of the Garfield Park State Savings bank who disappeared three weeks ago, leaving a shortage of approximately $400. The books of the Garfield bank are being checked in the belief his alleged pecu-lations may run into larger figures.

Forrester obtained a position with the Garfield bank under the name of Raymond H. Roessler, who lives at 5413 Leland avenue. About three weeks ago a collection agent for the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company deposited nearly $400 in the bank.
Forrester pocketed the money and disappeared.

Investigators found the real Roessler was unaware Forrester had been using his name. From other source Detective Sergeants McGinnis and Birmingham learned the teller frequented a bowling alley at 3150 Lincoln avenue.
They arrested Forrester when he appeared there last night.

"I didn't have any trouble getting a job with the reserve bank," Forrester explained, "because I used my real name and had plenty of good references. I didn't take any more than that one gas company deposit. I just took that because I needed the money."

AL TEARNEY MAY BUY MARIGOLD,
PALAIS DE DANSE
Al Tearney, south side restaurateur, is negotiating for the control of the Marigold Gardens and the Palais de Danse, at Broadway and Grace street, now owned by Eitel Bros. The deal, if it goes through, will involve a rental of $50,000 a year or a purchase price of $350,000. A motion picture theater in the neighborhood may also be involved in the transfer.

Mr. Tearney admitted last night he has been negotiating with Willis & Frankenstein, agents of the Eitels, for ten days. Several other wealthy Chi-cagans whose names he refused to reveal, are interested with him, he said.

"I am going to call on Judge Landis and some others tomorrow," said Mr.
Tearney. "I certainly don't want to make such a purchase if I am to be bothered or closed up within a few days. If they say they will let me alone as long as I run the right sort of a place the deal is very apt to go through."

Five More Police Autos to Make Crooks' Lot Unhappy
Five more police automobiles will be put into service within the next few days, according to Chief Fitzmorris.
Eight are now in use. "These automobiles can do the work of many patro-men," said the chief, "and they cover more ground."

WOMAN VENDOR'S RIVAL HAWKSWAY TO A DAMAGE SUIT

Business was good along Maxwell street, and fish, apples and garments, everything, were sold easily by all the merchants.
From morning till night she made sales at "bottom" prices. Her stock dwindled, while E-Fireman's never attracted a single buyer.

"O!—what a business," said Fireman with a yawn one day.
"Something must be done."
Then he had an idea and he proceeded to execute it.

"Customers—customers," importuned Mr. Fireman, pushing his way into Mrs. Akopnik's store. "Come to my place. Better bargains. Everything cheap."

Mrs. Akopnik didn't deliberate long.
Seizing a broom, she strode up to the fronter and caulked her ear. Blood was on the floor and in his eye.
Now Mr. Fireman is being sued for

The onslaught of the Chicago tenants yesterday seems to have had decisive effect, for here is what happened today:

1. The senate judiciary committee reported out two of the Kessinger bills. One permits tenants to obtain a court order allowing them to remain in possession for six months pending judicial determination on advanced rentals, meaning giving bond. The other bill provides for trial by jury on the motion either of landlord or tenant.

2. The Dailey joint resolution for investigation of alleged building conspiracies in Chicago is delayed by refusal of the house to recede from its amendments, to which the senate refused concurrence yesterday. The resolution now goes to a conference.

Quick Passage Expected.
It is expected the Kessinger bills will be passed by the senate not later than Wednesday. Quick action on them by the house may follow.

There is a compromise plan to have the building committee inquiry made by seven representatives and seven senators, while the rental situation may be inquired into at the option of the committee.

The most favorable action would mean adoption of the resolution by both houses next week, and then it would be possible for the investigation to start in Chicago Friday morning.
Everything indicated the Kessinger bills are to be passed by the senate and the Dailey resolution will be put through by agreement between the two houses.

In the senate judiciary committee session today real estate interests insisted that the house give a secured bond for continued occupancy pending court decision on rent raises.
The committee unanimously overrode this objection.

Wants Coolidge to Speak.
The joint resolution of Representative Young, adopted yesterday by the house, and providing that three constitutional amendments may be submitted at the same session, was referred by the senate to the judiciary committee.

Vice President Coolidge is to be in Chicago at an early date. Representative Earl H. Searcy of Springfield offered a joint resolution that was adopted by the house inviting him to Springfield to address the general assembly at a date in conjunction with the Chicago visit of the vice president, when he is to speak before the Hamilton club.

Both houses adjourned for the transaction of business until next Tuesday at 10 o'clock a. m., but perfunctory sessions of both bodies will be held at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon.

WOULD LIMIT PROFITS
A new slap at landlords demanding extortionate rents was taken by Representative Church of Evanston yesterday, when he introduced a bill to limit the house at Springfield limiting the net incomes from apartment buildings to 12 per cent of the fair market value of the property.

As a means of enforcing the measure, Mr. Church advocates that persons or corporations contracting to receive extortionate rents shall be forced to forfeit all net income over the property involved in excess of 5 per cent.

Elated over the news that the judiciary committee of the senate at Springfield had reported out favorably two Kessinger bills, aimed to aid tenants, the Chicago Tenants' Protective league continued to press its fight to put over the city rent commission enabling act.

Senator Kessinger said if nine additional Chicago members of the senate are won over in behalf of the enabling act its passage is assured. The necessary downstate votes in the committee, he said, were pledged to him
Wednesday night.

The Chicago senators who have not stated willingness to support the bill are: J. E. MacMurray, James J. Barbour, Fred F. Roos, Frank P. Sadler, Edward J. Glavin, John T. Donnell,
Edward J. Hughes, Henry W. Austin, and Daniel Herlihy.

Another suit to restrain tenants from displaying "unfair" signs in the windows of their apartments was started yesterday in the Circuit court by Miss Mary F. Conway, owner of an apartment building at 6236-42 Normal boulevard. Eight tenants are named in the petition.

"Miracle Man" Jugged for Overcharging for Herbs
John Mabul, alias "Dr. E. Braun, the miracle man," alleged to have deceived a number of "patients" by overcharging for herb medicines, was arrested yesterday in the First Trust and Savings bank by Serge. Payne and Duffy on complaint of Thomas Plakus, 21 West Grand avenue. Payne says he gave "Dr. Braun" $150 for some herb medicines that "almost killed him."

Laundry and Shoe Repair Prices Now Under Fire
Investigation of laundry and shoe repair shop prices was begun yesterday by Russell J. Poole, secretary of the council committee on living costs.
"Wholesale prices have fallen," he said, in a letter to Chairman Adam-owski, but retail prices are remaining high. Investigators also are inquiring into the charge that certain corporations advertise Pocahontas coal and deliver an inferior grade.

LAW DROPS CASE OF SCORND SOX; MAY BE REVIVED

BARRED FOREVER

WAXAHACHIE, Tex., March 17.—Kid Gleason, manager of the Chicago White Sox, declared today that the indicted baseball players would "never appear in uniform again."

When informed that the state of Illinois had dropped the case against the indicted White Sox members, Gleason at his spring training headquarters here said: "I am positive that they will never be allowed back in the ranks of organized baseball. They are out of baseball."

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Organized baseball will have to begin all over again the prosecution of the White Sox "et al." indicted for conspiracy in connection with the world's series of 1919, as a result of a session of legal fireworks before Judge Dever yesterday, at the conclusion of which the cases of seven players were not pressed, and those against seven others were stricken from the call.

The motion of nolle prosequi was made by State's Attorney Crowe after refusal of his request for a postponement of the trial until he could have time to prepare new evidence to supplement the incomplete work of the previous state's attorney's staff.

Charges of the corruption of witnesses and that the testimony given before the grand jury has been published in a New York newspaper were made by the state's attorney.

Plans for Reindictment.

The cases not pressed were those against Cicotte, Williams, Jackson, Felsch, Weaver, Risberg, and McMullin of the White Sox, the first three of whom confessed before the October grand jury. These men, State's Attorney Crowe said, will be immediately reindicted.

Chick Gandil, former White Sox, Hal Chase, late of the Giants, Bill Burns, retired pitcher, Rachel Brown, Sport (James J.) Sullivan, and Abe Attie, in connection with the alleged conspiracy, are still under indictment, but their cases were stricken from the call, which practically means they will not come up again until fall.

Out of the Game.

The action of the court will have no effect on the standing of the players in organized baseball. President Comiskey of the White Sox on Wednesday unconditionally released all the players involved, assuring the south side fans they would not be allowed to wear Sox uniforms again. Previous to that, Commissioner Landis placed the indicted players on his ineligible list, which will prevent their playing with any other club until they convince the commissioner their hands are clean.

When informed of the action, none of the local baseball officials would express an opinion, possibly for fear of contempt of court, Comiskey, who was confined to his home by illness, said his action of the day before spoke for itself. Judge Landis announced, "I can't say a word," and Ben Johnson declined to talk for publication.

Crowe Charges Bugging.

State's Attorney Crowe issued a formal statement covering the facts and circumstances which compelled his action and declaring his intention to reindict the players. In part it follows:

"Shortly after Feb. 1, I directed my second assistant, George E. Gorman, to have the so-called baseball cases set for trial at the earliest possible date. He then began to prepare the same for trial, and we were amazed to find that the investigation of this crime, conducted by my predecessors before the October grand jury, was not full and complete, and that witnesses were permitted to withhold material evidence and were excused from answering questions which would uncover the entire conspiracy.

"We were further amazed to learn that all the testimony before the grand jury was being publicly offered for sale by a New York newspaper syndicate.

"We then learned that Cicotte, who had testified in behalf of the state that he was a party to this conspiracy and had received $10,000 as his share of the spoils, and that Claude Williams and Joe Jackson, who likewise had been witnesses for the state before the grand jury, and stated they had received $5,000 apiece in payment of their share, had been corruptly, or otherwise, brought under the domination of other defendants, and were refusing to testify before a Cook county jury upon the trial of this case.

"We further learned that many other persons who were parties to this criminal conspiracy had not been indicted.

"I immediately directed Mr. Gorman to appear in court, set forth these facts, and ask that the cases be passed from the call, in order that my office might have time to obtain evidence from various parts of the country to prove to the satisfaction of a jury the existence of this conspiracy. When this matter came before the court the last time I was confined to my bed.

Not Ready by May 2.

"The court stated he would set the case for trial on May 2. I told the court it was impossible to obtain by May 2, evidence which I am satisfied is in existence, and which would convict these defendants and other persons not named, and that if the case was set for trial May 2 I would be forced to enter a nolle prosequi as to those defendants who appeared and gave bail.

"I stated to the court and now publicly state that I propose to appear before the grand jury to present again the evidence of the commission of this crime and to ask the return of other indictments against these defendants, and against others not named. It is my purpose to do every thing within my power to reach all persons guilty of this crime, and to send them to the penitentiary if the evidence warrants."

GASOLINE ALLEY—AVERY'S NEAREST

EX-ATHLETES "MAKE GOOD" NO. 14

Famous as a football player and track star in the late '90s at Harvard, Ayres Boal is another Chicagoan who has followed his well earned career as a star in athletics with a success in business.

Mr. Boal is a prominent real estate man, with offices on Michigan boulevard. He is a member of the Real Estate board, and has been connected with numerous large syndicate deals. It was in 1919 that he broke into fame in athletics, playing guard on the Harvard varsity. That was in the days when a guard had to be a pretty rugged sort of a person, for he was the brunt of the wedge play and all the center mass formation. Boal held down the guard berth for three years, and was a star on the track team, slinging the hammer 149 feet, which in those days was a remarkable throw and stood as a record in the Harvard-Yale series for many years.

SOX CASE DUD NO NEWS TO HEYDLER

Pinehurst, N. C., March 17.—(Special.)—John Heydler, president of the National league, today said that organized baseball was prepared to deal with former members of the Chicago American league baseball team, when he learned that the Cook County court had dismissed the cases against the players charged with throwing the 1919 world's series games.

"We foresaw just such action and prepared for it when Judge Landis was appointed baseball commissioner," Mr. Heydler said. "There always has been doubt among legal men as to the jurisdiction of the courts in such instances. Judge Landis can be depended upon to deal with such a situation in the proper manner."

Mr. Heydler said that he stood by his determination that the Chicago players would never appear in major league baseball again.

EX-SOX OUT FOR GOOD: GARRY

Cincinnati, O., March 17.—(Special.)—August Hermann, president of the Cincinnati Reds, when informed of the decision in Chicago to drop indictments against the White Sox players, said:

"Although the cases against the White Sox players were dismissed, they never will play in organized baseball again. Mr. Comiskey has formally discharged from his club all his players who were indicted. Being barred from the game, I certainly think, is a severe punishment."

Go Back on Confessions.

"We then learned that Cicotte, who had testified in behalf of the state that he was a party to this conspiracy and had received $10,000 as his share of the spoils, and that Claude Williams and Joe Jackson, who likewise had been witnesses for the state before the grand jury, and stated they had received $5,000 apiece in payment of their share, had been corruptly, or otherwise, brought under the domination of other defendants, and were refusing to testify before a Cook county jury upon the trial of this case.

WHITE SOX TACKLE GIANTS SECONDS IN FIRST CLASH TODAY

BARDS CELEBRATE

YESTERDAY was the eleventh anniversary of the laying of the corner stone of the grand stand at Comiskey park, which was put in place on March 17, 1910, by former Ald. John Agnew. On the corner stone was implanted a green brick in honor of the date. The anniversary was observed by an informal dinner in the Woodland Bar's rooms yesterday afternoon.

Waxahachie, Tex., March 17.—[Special.]—Kid Gleason's revamped White Sox will go into action at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

noon in their first battle of the season. Although the clash with the second string forces of the New York Giants is only an exhibition affair, it is expected to offer a hint from the gents who will appear in the immaculate history in the coming American league pennant campaign.

McGraw's yearlings, reinforced by a few veterans, are booked to journey over from Dallas in the morning, and in the afternoon the Waxahachie citizenry will observe a half holiday from business worries to view the combat.

Broiled into Shape.

The south siders, having perspired through four days of broiling endeavor, are in splendid condition for their interleague encounters with the Giants and the Reds, who will be tackled at Port Worth Saturday and Sunday. Gleason has named his battle front for tomorrow's matinee as follows:

Johnson, cf.; McGowan, cf.; McElligan, 1b.; Murphy, 2b.; Sheely, 1b.; Mostil, cf.; M. Olin, 3b.; Tureman, 2b.; Schaak and Yarn, c.; Kerr, Hodie, and Morris, p.

Mostil Makes Record Homer.

In practice this afternoon Johnny Mostil crashed a fast ball pitched by Dominick Mulrean, over the left field fence. The oldest inhabitants declare none of the Tigers or Reds, who trained here once, ever did that.

Gleason will have a second squad here Saturday to play the Giants, while the Sox first stringers invade Fort Worth to meet the Cincinnati Reds.

Roy Wilkinson, who reported last night, was out in uniform today.

Schaefer Easy Winner Over Cochran in Cue Match

New York, March 17.—[Special.]—Jake Schaefer emerged an easy victor over Walker Cochran in their two-day exhibition cue match, which came to a close tonight. The exhibition was played in four blocks of 300 points each, and Schaefer won three of the four blocks, gaining a total of 1,150 points to 713 for Cochran.

Zeb Terry was the batting demon of the day, having three triples. The Cubs did not profit much by today's encounter. The game was played on a rough field and the infielders were afraid to take chances.

Manager Evers called off tomorrow's game here with Seattle. He thinks more good will be derived from practice. The people out here are not interested in the Cubs and "crowds" number only a few hundred. Score by innings:

Ten Year Figures Show a Fall in Acreage.

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.

Preliminary figures on farms and farm property in Iowa, released last night by the bureau of the census, shows the following interesting trend during the last ten years in this great agricultural state:

The number of farms decreased 1.7 per cent.

Total acreage in farms decreased 1.3 per cent.

Total improved acreage decreased 3 per cent.

The average size of farms remained almost unchanged.

Farm tenancy increased. In 1910 tenanted farms were 37.8 per cent of the farms; in 1920, 41.7 per cent.

Value Jumps 128 Per Cent.

The value of all farm property increased 128 per cent. In 1910 it was $3,745,860,544. On Jan. 1, 1920 it was $8,525,266,091.

Value of land and buildings increased 123 per cent; of implements and machinery, 224 per cent; of live stock, 56 per cent.

Average value of land per acre increased 141 per cent—from $52.58 in 1910 to $119.52 in 1920.

Ten years ago the number of farms in Iowa was 217,044. They contained 33,830,683 acres, of which 29,491,199 were improved land. In 1920, there were 213,439 farms, a decrease of 3,605. These farms contained 33,474,896 acres, of which 29,605,931 were improved. In 1920, 94.1 per cent of the land area was in farms and 85.5 per cent of the farm-land was improved.

Average Acreage.

The average acreage per farm was 156.8 acres in 1920 as against 156.3 acres in 1910, an increase of only half an acre. The improved land of the average farm was 134 acres in 1920, as against 135.9 in 1910, a fall of almost two acres.

The value of the average farm—land, buildings, and other property—stood at $39,942 in 1920, as against $17,259 in 1910. The course followed by values is seen in the following tabulation:

FARM VALUES—IOWA.
	Jan. 1, 1920. April 15, 1910.
All farm prop.	$8,525,266,091 $3,745,860,544
Land and bldgs.	7,601,772,290 3,257,879,400
Implements and machinery	309,172,308 95,477,948
Live stock	613,321,493 399,093,196
Average value per farm:
All farm prop.	$39,942 17,259
Land and bldgs.	35,616 15,008
Land alone	31,292 12,910
Average value per acre:
Land and bldgs.	$227.09 $96.60
Land alone	199.52 82.58

More Farms Mortgaged.

The announcement says that in 1920, 59.1 per cent of all farms operated by their owners were mortgaged, as compared with 51.8 per cent in 1910. The value of the 52,341 farms for which complete mortgage reports were obtained, was $1,814,260,000, and the amount of the mortgage debt was $489,816,739, or 27 per cent of the value. The average rate of interest paid was 5.5 per cent. In 1910, 50,462 farms gave full mortgage reports; the value of the farms was $735,265,000, and the amount of debt was $204,242,700, or 27.8 per cent of the value. This is a shade higher than the present ratio.

For the farms reporting the amount of debt, the average debt per farm was $9,318 in 1920, as against $4,045 in 1910. It has just about kept pace with growth in values.

In 1920, the number of white farmers was 213,330, as against 218,843 ten years ago. Of the white farmers in 1920, 181,109 were native, as against 167,850 in 1910, and 32,221 were foreign born, as compared with 48,987 ten years ago, these figures reflecting the passing of the land from one generation to another. Iowa has 109 colored farmers as against 201 in 1920.

Of the total number of farms, 121,888 were operated by owners, as against 133,003 in 1910, while 89,065 were run by tenants, as against 82,115 ten years ago.

AMERICAN LEGION NOTES

Hyde Park post has adopted another French war orphan, Berthe Bertex, who lives in Auzay, France, and is 10 years old. The little boy whom the post adopted last spring writes that he will make his first communion next month and regrets that his father, who was killed at Verdun, cannot be present.

The Khaki and Blue club will dance this evening on the eighth floor of the Stevens building. All ex-service men are invited.

The Gallop'n' Goose, North Shore post's dramatic club, will present "Sick Abed," a three act farce comedy, on April 14, 15, and 16 at the Athenaeum theater.

The Gold Star Fathers' Association of Illinois, which was incorporated Feb. 22, gave a supper Wednesday in the Army and Navy club rooms, City Hall Square building. More than 200 attended. A. S. LOST & FOUND

This classification of Want Ads in the great Sunday Tribune Want Ad Section is a real public utility. Remember it! And use it when you need it!

A WANT AD can be a mail order catalog as well as a salesman. Just glance at the Parcel Post and Express column in the Want Ad Section next Sunday and see the variety of business that is done by mail with Want Ads. Last Sunday, for instance, the following were advertised: Grist mills, pipe tobacco, stale bread, honey, cheese, malt, fresh eggs, Bangkok hats, and coffee.

If you sell anything that can be satisfactorily shipped by parcel post or express, there is no reason why you should not avail yourself of Sunday Tribune Want Ads! By no other means can you send a sales message to so many potential customers at one time and with such little expense.

These mail order Want Ads must produce, or advertisers would not use them so consistently. And if they produce for others, they will for you! Run yours next Sunday. Order your Want Ad today!

A MEMBERSHIP in a golf or country club becomes more desirable with every succeeding day of Spring weather. If you have a membership that you will not be able to use this summer, you can dispose of it through a Want Ad in the Club and Ass'n Memberships column in the Sunday Tribune Want Ad Section.

If you are looking for a membership in some good nearby club, this same column will help you find one. State your preference in a Want Ad. Find your membership as soon as possible, because you'll want to use it pretty soon. That means you ought to advertise now—next Sunday.

THE VACATION bacillus usually appears about this time, along with the golf bug and the gardening germ. This prevalent bacillus makes it very easy to sell Summer Resort property—cottages, bungalows and camp sites—through the ever convenient Tribune Want Ad.

If you have desirable property and want to part with it, a Want Ad next Sunday in this great Sunday Section will help you find buyers.

On the other hand, if you contemplate owning a place where the fish bite and the summer passes pleasantly, a mention of your want in a Want Ad will help you find the place.

In either case, run your Want Ad next Sunday—order it today!

PERSONAL

The messages in this column come to the notice of thousands of eyes. A Personal Want Ad may help you when nothing else can. Don't neglect to take advantage of it!

NEW CLOTHES for Easter and Spring—but the thought of an already overflowing wardrobe deters many a woman from further indulgence in seasonal shopping!

There are dresses, worn but by no means worn out; and the suit bought last year, still in splendid condition, but shorn of charm for its present owner; and all the rest of the half worn garments that hang there accusingly!

In such a situation the sensible woman thinks of Tribune Want Ads, and holds her own white elephant sale. A Want Ad in this Sunday Section, offering the unwanted garments, will help empty the wardrobe, and incidentally bring in funds for the new garments that beckon bewilderingly from the shop windows.

ORDER your Want Ad by phone. Call Central 100 and ask for an Adtaker.

Or place your order in The Tribune's Want Ad Store, in the Tribune Building, Madison and Dearborn, main floor. Special service department for women.

Sunday Tribune Want Ad Section

HAVE you ever really considered how Tribune Want Ads might help you? Turn to the great Sunday Want Ad Section in next Sunday's Tribune and see all the classifications, all the kinds of want ads that appear there—thousands of advertisers accomplishing something with them, thousands of readers being helped by them! Tribune Want Ads today are a small but important factor in the conduct of business, household, or personal affairs, to those who have learned to really use them! Now just consider if these want ads cannot help you—to sell clothing, furniture, real estate, pet animals, arts and antiques, books, automobiles, boats; to buy anything; to find a maid, a job, a flat, or an employee!

This great Sunday Want Ad Section was never able to accomplish more for advertisers than it is today. With the gigantic, far-flung circulation of The Sunday Tribune, more than 800,000 copies with millions of readers over five states, every want ad is seen more, read more, and is more effective than ever before. Every want ad now works harder for the advertiser. Use want ads now—and start using them next Sunday!

THE YOUNG person's interests expand in a daily expanding world, and the pet animals have their day—but only their day. When active young minds turn to new attractions, and the puppy, kitten, guinea pigs, canaries or rabbits no longer hold the center of the stage, the disposal of the little wanted pets becomes a problem—a problem that Want Ads will solve! To get some return on the expense and care invested on the pets, sell them through a Want Ad in this Sunday Section!

THIRTY YEARS ago, while traveling in the Orient, a Chicago man bought two Satsuma vases. When they were delivered, some months later, he no longer liked them—and did not even unpack them! Last week he asked a friend how to best dispose of them. The answer was—"through a Tribune Want Ad."

If you, too, have curios, antiques, objets d'art, old jewelry or silver—that you do not care for and do not intend to keep, advertise them in the Arts and Antiques classification of the great Sunday Section, and sell them to the connoisseur or collector who will appreciate them.

Old books and magazines may be similarly disposed of in the Books and Magazines classification.

THE IDEA of that garden crops up again! The aesthetic speculates on gladioli, and plans gardens that delight the eye and soothe the soul. The economist thinks of grub, home grown and handy, that preserves the pocketbook. And both kinds of gardeners will do well to consider Sunday Tribune Want Ads!

If you are a successful gardener, and have seeds or bulbs or plants to sell, your market is easily reached through the Seeds, Plants and Trees column. If you are looking for something unusual, new varieties or strains, the mention of your wants in this column will meet with response.

The present is not too soon to estimate your gardening needs, and the moral is to use Tribune Want Ads now—preferably next Sunday.

CLOSING HOUR

To make all editions of The Sunday Tribune, Want Ads must be in our office by FIVE o'clock Friday; to make all city editions, by TWO o'clock Saturday. Order your Want Ad today!

LOOK into the factories if you want to see beautiful girls," writes a follower of the big $30,000 contest now being conducted. And the top of the page is turned over to the factory girls this morning.

Useful maids, these, as well as ornamental. They help make food to eat and clothes to wear and cars in which to ride. One of these girls helps make the watches that enable the girls of other occupations to know when it is time to go to work. Will the grand prize winner prove to be a factory girl? Ten thousand dollars will be awarded to the most beautiful girl when she is found. In addition ten prizes will be distributed in each of the six territorial divisions—the city of Chicago, the state of Illinois outside of Chicago, the state of Indiana, the state of Iowa, the state of Wisconsin, and the state of Michigan. The first prize in each of these divisions will be $1,000, the second $250, the third $100, and the remaining seven $50 each. The contest is open to every girl, unmarried or a widow, who resides anywhere in the five states, except professional beauties. Select a photograph of yourself or some girl friend and write plainly on the back of it the name, street address, and occupation of the entrant. Send the photograph to "Beauty Contest," CHICAGO TRIBUNE, South Dearborn street, Chicago.

WEARY WILHEMINA: THAT weary willy-mean-a feeling is partly physical, partly mental—and partly spring. Search for the cause of the first two, and you eliminate everything from the third but the joys of the season. There may be infection in the teeth, constipation, or the sagging of a vital organ. Get eight hours sleep. Exercise! And eat foods that contain cellulose and not so much concentrated foods. Drink water and train yourself to a cold shower in the a. m.

MRS. P. D. MONTAGNE BATH: There is no torture woman would not suffer to enhance her beauty. That is the frame of mind some women work themselves into when they think of reducing. They stop thinking about it and get busy don't feel that way at all. A description of one of the characters in a novel was: "Obesity descended upon her in middle life like lava on a mountain city." Can't you see her? At the rate your waist and hips are spreading, you better not let any more time elapse before you learn the way to get thin and practice it. Send me the a. m. for diet and exercises.

WRINKLES: IF THIS DIGESTION is good, the mind reasonably serene, the flesh firm and healthy, and the night's sleep a restful one, wrinkles will be a long time in appearing. If you have not any now, don't cross the stream with a bottle of massage cream in your hand bidding them wait. Attend rather to the digestion, the hygienic life of exercise, and the wholesome food and rest, and maybe you'll never have to buy any skin food at all.

W. M. THANK YOU SINCERELY for the chills remedy. I'll print it right here so some one else who wants to get into her shoes more comfortably may: Put the feet in water as hot as you can bear for fifteen minutes, adding hot water from time to time. Then dry them. Put the following mixture on, but do not rub in. Mix one quarter pound of lard. When melted add two tablespoonfuls of mustard. Keep beating until lard is hard again.

E. J. I AM TOLD BY PEOPLE who have tried it that yeast is excellent for chapped hands. It would have to be reduced to a paste or liquid form. Equal parts of glycerine and camphor make a fine hand lotion.

CALUMET BAKING POWDER

You Don't Have to Guess — You KNOW You Use Less

There is only one way to be absolutely certain of satisfactory bakings—use Calumet.

Every time you employ Calumet you have the positive assurance of success. There's no guessing—no hoping—no luck. You know your baking will be sweet and wholesome because Calumet never fails.

Purity of the food that you serve to your family is of vital importance to health. Calumet is pure in the can—pure in the baking. Contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by the United States Pure Food Authorities.

You save when you buy it—You save when you use it.

Calumet has many times proven its superiority. Received highest awards at the World's Pure Food Exposition, Chicago, Illinois, Paris Exposition, Paris, France.

All of these things are cause for millions of housewives to insist on and demand Calumet — the largest selling brand on earth.

Have You Tried It?

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 oz. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. instead of 16 oz. cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.
